Reception Planned For Head of Legion

Plans for the reception of O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, who will visit Atlanta next Friday, were discussed Friday at the legion luncheon at the Ansley hotel.

The program arranged for Commander Bodenhamer will include a review of troops at Fort McPherson.

It was stated, with a reception later at the Officers' Club.

The entertainment Friday was in charge of Robert Stowers. It included selections by Cecil White's Hawaiian orchestra. Captain Gordon Keith and Mackey Solenberg also contributed to the program.

A meeting of the membership committee was held following the meeting under the leadership of Robert P. McLarty, newly appointed chairman. Members of the committee are Dr. H. C. Hardgrave, James Harrison, Fitzhugh Knox, Jr., James Morrison, S.

LAGRANGE HIGH SCHOOL DEPARTMENT PRAISED

To the LaGrange High school goes the honor of having one of the finest home economics cottages in the south, state department of education authorities here say.

The new home, dedicated recently, is modern in every detail, and amply equipped to teach the high school maidens of LaGrange the art of homemaking, it is said.

Sunday Work Allowed On New Forsyth Bridge

In an effort to expedite reconstruction of the Forsyth street viaduct and to speed the work to early completion, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Friday issued a permit to Alexander MacDougall, president of the MacDougall Construction Company, holder of the contract to rebuild the structure, to work Sunday.

Mr. MacDougall's organization Friday began preliminary work incident to the rebuilding program, although the contract between the borough and his firm has not actually been signed.

City Attorney James L. Mayson was engaged in drawing the contract and it will be signed formally just as soon as he completes it.

Work on the bridge will be prosecuted night and day by three eight-hour shifts under the plans.

The MacDougall Company was more than $8,000 lower than the next bidder.

left Friday for an inspection and mapping of the 6,800-acre tract of timber near Gainesville owned by the University of Georgia.

Forestry experts will estimate the amount of timber on the tract available for commercial use and will recommend reforestation for part of the area.

The land was at one time worked over for gold during the period when a United States mint was located at Dahlonega. Everett B. Stone, Jr., assistant state forester, is in charge of the present survey.

Gailor Unwilling To Take Church Post

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21.—(AP) Unwillingness to accept appointment as president of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, should he be elected, was expressed by the Rt. Rev. Thomas E. Gailor, bishop of Tennessee, at his home here today.

"I do not think there is much possibility of my being elected," Bishop Gailor said. "My position in the matter is understood and it is known that I have discouraged such a movement. I am too old to shoulder duties and responsibilities incumbent upon the council president. The strain is too much."

The New York Times said today that Bishop Gailor may be the next presiding bishop of that communion. There is growing sentiment to elect him to fill out the unexpired term of six years of the late Bishop John Gardner Murray. Bishop Gailor's statement was prompted by the Times article.

"I have no wish that my name be placed before the council," he said. Bishop Gailor served as president of the national council from 1919 to 1926. His retirement, he said, was due to the heavy work of the post. He has served as bishop of Tennessee since 1908.

1,600 Stills Taken In January Raiding

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP) Federal prohibition agents during January captured a total of 1,600 stills, ranging in size from a teakettle and copper pipe affair to plants capable of turning out 2,000 gallons of alcohol a day.

Commissioner of Prohibition Dornan in announcing this today said of the total 730 plants were producing alcohol from corn sugar.

These plants, located principally in Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and in New England, he added, cost from $10,000 to $50,000 apiece and produced from 1,000 to 2,000 gallons of pure alcohol a day, using as much as two carloads of corn sugar in a 24-hour run. Only 90 of the plants seized were employed to remove denaturants from industrial alcohol.

Dry laws were continued in full force through February and into March, the commissioner said, but results for these periods had not yet been totaled.

Wreck Reported.

TAMPA, Fla., March 21.—(AP) Captain Charles Farrington, of the motorship No. 1, from Grand Cayman island, reported today the wrecking of the American lumber schooner Geneva Kathleen about two weeks ago on a reef off the east shore of the island. He said the ship went aground after E. Connolly, its negro captain, was unable for several days to take chronometer readings. The Kathleen sailed from Gulfport, Miss., for Curacao, Dutch West Indies, with a cargo of 600,000 feet of lumber about March 1. The lumber was salvaged, he said.

MIAMI SOCIETY LEADERS NAMED IN DAMAGE SUIT

Plaintiffs Charge They Received No Pay for Circus Services.

MIAMI, Fla., March 21.—(AP) Society leaders who were named today in a $10,000 damage suit growing out of a recent winter society circus have tonight generally denied having participated in any committee in charge of or handling arrangements for the circus.

Twenty-eight prominent residents of the metropolitan area named in the suit, wealthy winter colonists at Miami Beach, were named as defendants in the suit, with Irene Bordoni, stage star, leading a group of plaintiffs who alleged they had not received payment for services rendered in connection with the event.

According to William J. Dunn, Miami Beach attorney, who represented eight plaintiffs in the suit, the circus was presented March 7 and 8 under the direction of Mrs. Gausson Clark for the benefit of four local charities. Dunn said that the 28 defendants had been named to him as members of committees sponsoring the event, but this was denied by Clayton Sedgwick Cooper, one of the defendants, who spoke for several of them.

Cooper, wealthy winter resident of Miami Beach, connected with the suit, said that some of the defendants, representing various metropolitan Miami charities, had been told by Mrs. Clark that she was handling all arrangements for the circus and did not require their assistance.

Mrs. Clark, Dunn said, had not been located today by the attorneys in connection with the case.

Defendants named were: Colonel E. H. R. Green, Clayton Sedgwick Cooper, Mrs. Elliott P. Sheppard, Glen Curtis, Mrs. Glen Curtis, George D. Morgan, Mrs. Carl G. Fisher, Frank Selbering, James H. Gilman, F. Lowry Wall, William Peters Morgan, N. S. W. Wheeler, George Hare, Mrs. George Hare, Milo Cleveland, Mrs. Milo Cleveland, Omar Abernethy, Clifford Willis, Mrs. Clifford Willis, Ann Tyndall, Margaret Delaney, Robert W. Gifford, Jess Andrew, Herbert Brown, Mrs. Hewitt Brown, Rex Stafford, Mrs. Rex Stafford and Mrs. Rex Stafford.

The plaintiffs and the amounts they sought in the $10,000 damage suit included: Irene Bordoni, entertainment, $1,000; Gaudin, entertainment, $1,000; manager of Miss Bordoni, $1,000; Mrs. Wilhelmina Edholm, coach of the production, $1,000; R. W. Edholm, contracting work, $323; Electric Construction Company, $392; George D. Massey, decorator, $842; John Mac Silvers, orchestra, $517; Lord and Miles Studio, Inc., costume makers, $370; Charles Faisole, Deauville restaurant proprietor, $356.

Dunn said today that date for trial of the case probably will be set on April 7, rule day in circuit court.

"I don't see why this suit was filed," Cooper said tonight, "even if many of us had had anything to do with it, and if those that represented the various charities had been allowed by Mrs. Clark to have some knowledge of the affair, if the persons who had filed their claims had presented them to us, we certainly should have paid them if we were responsible for them."

Embattled Bees Repulse Attack Of Constabulary

EVANSTON, Ill., March 21.—(AP) Anyone well versed on the psychology of the bee would have no difficulty at all getting on the Evanston police force, at least temporarily.

The police have quite a problem in A. E. De Wolf's bees and they admit they need help. They were called into the case last night by De Wolf, who breathlessly informed them that his bees had been stolen.

Theft, even of bees, being one of the things that is not tolerated in Evanston, the police hurried to the scene. It did not take them long to discover the insects in a neighbor's barn. They learned at the same time that the bees were there at no invitation on the part of the neighbor. In fact he was as insistent as De Wolf that they be returned to their rightful owner.

There was only one thing to do, and the officers did it. They charged the barn, but retreated almost immediately. The bees had no intention of evacuating their new quarters and they said so with stings.

The police called a truce, but they still faced the problem today. The officers, at least those who made the call last night, favor strategy over the usual police methods. They are very anxious to find out just what it is that makes a bee leave home and, what is more to the point, what it is that will induce him to return.

CANADIAN STEAMER MAY BE RELEASED

SEATTLE, Wash., March 21.—(AP) Release of the Canadian-American freighter Chief Capilano, seized under a writ of foreign attachment in the case of Juan de Fuca last Wednesday by a United States coast guard patrol boat, loomed today as a result of a ruling by Federal Judge E. E. Cullen.

Although the freighter was seized in American waters, Judge Cushman last night held that the seizure was illegal under a treaty which guaran-

FORMER GEORGIAN SLAIN IN FLORIDA

KENANSVILLE, Fla., March 21.—(AP) Investigation was under way today into the fatal shooting yesterday of Joe B. Scott, 44, by Grady Moon, employee at a logging camp in Brevard county, near here. The slain man was the brother of T. T. Scott, prominent Oseola county lumberman.

Moon, a blacksmith, had been sent from Kenansville to the logging camp to repair a well, and the shooting took place shortly after his arrival. Relatives of Scott said a disagreement arose between the two men several days ago. Moon was arrested by Oseola county authorities and turned over to the Brevard county sheriff.

Scott was formerly in the cotton business in Savannah. The body was removed today from an Oseola undertaking establishment to Cordele, Georgia.

Federal Agents Raid Huge Beer 'Factory'

NEWARK, N. J., March 21.—(AP) Federal prohibition agents, working out of Albany, N. Y., believed today they had cut off a source of supply for upstate New York cities by raiding a brewery and loading station here and seizing 1,000 barrels of beer.

The raid was made by nine agents armed with pistols and riot guns under command of Captain George E. Golding, special agent for New England and New York state outside New York city. New Jersey prohibition agents knew nothing of the raid until it was over.

Using a truck for a battering ram the raiders smashed down the doors of a garage at the rear of a brewing plant operated by the Superior Manufacturing Company yesterday. They said they found a crew of men filling barrels from a 500-foot pipe line running from the brewery.

They then entered the brewery and arrested 31 persons, including a girl switchboard operator. All were charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. The brewery and loading station were put under guard.

Captain Golding said he had made the raid after learning that the brewery was "flooding" Albany, Utica, Syracuse and other upstate New York communities with illicit beer.

The raid was made without warrant. Captain Golding explained that no warrant was needed because the company held a government permit to manufacture near beer.

CHICAGO HOUSEBOATS WIN 20-YEAR FIGHT

CHICAGO, March 21.—(P)—Life aboard the houseboats tied up in the north branch of the Chicago river was more cheerful today—not because of the chilly arrival of spring but because of a permanent injunction granted by Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel enjoining the city from forcing the houseboats off the river.

Judge Gentzel's restraining order culminated a 20-year fight.

Negroes Executed.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 21.—(P)—Mack Brown, 27, and John Green, 28, negroes, were electrocuted at the state penitentiary this morning for the murder last December of Ed Dubley, 23, and Bud Morgan, 30, white farmers, who were returning home from a dice game in the Little River bottoms. Ed Nolan, another negro, and the alleged instigator of the crime, is under sentence to die next week. The three negroes divided $5.25 taken from their victims.

TEN MISSIONARIES BESIEGED IN CHINA

All Mission Workers Should Be Removed Until Safety Is Restored.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(P)—With 11 American Catholic missionaries reported besieged in Kanchow, China, by communist Chinese, the state department today informed the Rev. John J. Burke, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare conference, that all missionaries in southern Kiangsi, the province where Kanchow is located, should be withdrawn as soon as possible.

Further, said the department, they should stay out of the territory "until safe conditions are restored."

Following is the list of missionaries who were in Kanchow January 1: Bishop J. A. O'Shea, Deep River, Conn., head of the mission; F. L. Cahill, Germantown, Pa.; J. J. Corbett, Boston; Vincent Delude, South Boston, Mass.; Francis J. Straub, Rochester, N. Y.; and Mary C. Beggs, Clara Louise Groell, Anselma Jarboe, Emily P. Kolb, Helen C. Lucas, Sarah O'Neill and Annie Strable, all of Emmetsburg, Md.

The mission was established by the Vincentian order, the head of which is the Rev. Robert A. Lennon, St. Joseph's College, Emmetsburg, Md. State department officials assumed that one of those listed escaped from Kanchow before the Chinese communist troops advanced.

The department revealed how Bishop O'Shea had transmitted at least three appeals since last December 1 to the American legation at Peiping, asking protection for his mission.

The last warning of danger came from Edward Young, American missionary at Nanchang, in Kiangsi province, who was captured and released by bandits several months ago. Young declared that Kanchow was besieged, that the danger was "very grave," that Bishop O'Shea and 10 Americans were trapped and asked that help be sent quickly.

In a message accompanying Young's telegram of warning, Douglas Jenkins, the American consul general at Canton, informed the state department that he immediately took the case up with the local government, which he said promised to order General Liu and Nanchang to send relief troops.

Further, the department was informed that the American legation had instructed the consulates at Hankow, Shanghai, and Nanking that the Chinese ministry for foreign affairs had requested an order for General Chin to suppress the communists.

Wanting a Thrill, Man Ends His Life

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N. C., March 21.—(P)—This afternoon they buried Hunter Shepherd, 22, who had "always wanted to do something thrilling" and so committed suicide.

"Dear world: Everybody has the wrong opinion of me," young Shepherd wrote in a note found on the ground near his body, discovered late yesterday in a pine grove near his home. "I always wanted to do something thrilling, and this life has been a failure with me. So this will be the last of H. T. Shepherd, better known as 'Dick'."

Hearings on Ritchie Charges Expected To Close Monday

Official Demands That Specific Accusations Be Made. Nothing Tangible Presented, Committee-men Say.

Following a demand by Raymond R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs, that specific charges be launched against him in order that "I can call from 150 to 500 witnesses to refute them," members of a special committee hearing complaints against the school official Friday afternoon indicated they would close the trial at a meeting Monday unless other and more concrete complaints are lodged. Ritchie's demand was made in a letter to John T. Hancock, chairman of the investigating committee of the board of education, and was supplemented by a verbal demand.

Members of the committee Friday afternoon declined to vote on any of the complaints which have been made against Ritchie, but deferred action. There seemed to be a general unwillingness on the part of the committee, however, to prolong the hearings unless witnesses appear.

Demand for Report Seen.

Every indication was that members of the committee would insist that some kind of a report be ready for sanction of that body at the Monday meeting, slated for 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the city hall.

Every member of the probing committee Friday afternoon declared that nothing has been presented thus far on which they could return a verdict, and it was stated that the committee has no authority to compel the attendance of witnesses unless they wish to appear.

Ritchie was placed on trial before the special committee after the Fulton county grand jury had charged him with "wanton extravagance and waste," with being "corrupt" and with being "domineering."

"When this investigation was opened, I was 'primed' to vote for the removal of Ritchie if anything against him was shown; even though it was not culpable," Anderson Ed A. Gilliam, a member of the committee said.

"We have spent many hours on this probe and up to this time have found absolutely nothing. I am willing and ready right now to vote to exonerate him. It is time we did something."

Action Is Wanted.

Mr. Hancock declared that the committee should not take action in haste pending completion of the investigation of municipal affairs by the grand jury, but it was evident from the expressions of a majority of the committee that members will insist that some action be taken at the next session.

John Cummins, a former employee in the stock room of the board of education, appeared as a witness in behalf of Ritchie.

He contended that Ritchie, through his shrewdness and business ability, has saved the board $10,000 or more annually by eliminating profits of wholesalers and retailers.

There are about 3,000 of two kinds of books which are ill-adapted to the use of students in the lower grades, he said. "We have tried to work them off into the system and to sell them, but we could not."

"The educational world considers these books, but despite our efforts to get them off the shelves, we were forced to buy under a ruling of the city attorney on the basis of our contract, we supplied textbooks free at a cost of only $1.22 per pupil."

"Books are changed only once every five years and that is done through the recommendation of the administrative staff and the board of education. Mr. Ritchie is not in any way responsible for what is bought or sold."

Home Work Elimination.

"We have tried to eliminate the home work idea," Mr. Ritchie believes it important to teach students to concentrate. That is best accomplished by elimination of home work and having them perform their duties under the supervision of competent teachers.

"The smaller children have about 15 minutes home work a day and others have about one and one-half hours."

Miss Postell also defended the removal of furniture which has been criticized.

"The movable furniture in a classroom assists the children in becoming accustomed to working conditions, which most of them will face after they leave school. It also is more sanitary and hygienic."

"Mr. Ritchie is not a czar in any sense of the word. I do not see how anyone can honestly charge inefficiency or dishonesty to him."

H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent in charge of high schools, declared only one book—and only a few copies of that—has been overbought.

"I have worked off virtually all the overstock," he said. "Mr. Ritchie considers his department a service agency to the instructional and administrative staff and co-operates to the fullest extent, as far as I have been able to observe."

Mrs. Effie Albright, principal of the Samuel Hunter school, declared that she has performed his services in a strictly businesslike manner and has co-operated to the fullest extent, considering the natural handicaps he has worked under because of lack of sufficient funds.

Text of the Letter.

Text of the Ritchie letter to Mr. Hancock follows:

"Mr. John T. Hancock, Chairman, Special Investigating Committee, Board of Education, Atlanta, Georgia:

"My dear Mr. Hancock:

"I feel that it is incumbent upon me at the present time to communicate to you under the head of personal privilege concerning the unfinished work of the committee."

"At the outset of this investigation, I saw in the efforts made in focusing the attack upon me as merely the beginning of an effort to render null and void the fine accomplishments of Mr. Sutton's administration over a period of 10 years. Since my reputation is at stake and I have been accused in a public manner with numerous unsupported charges, I cannot but feel the necessity of making this investigation to come to a close without not only proving myself innocent of certain allegations but also to prove the truth of my innocence."

"I am well satisfied with the manner in which the committee has conducted its hearings to date, in that they have allowed anybody to testify. It appears to me, however, that time has now arrived for the committee to formulate the charges for which I am on trial as your business superintendent. In the four hearings to date it would appear to me that there have been no definite charges launched against me and I believe you will see the fairness of my request in demanding that I be furnished with a copy of these charges so that preparation for defense can be made. I feel that any charges of this nature should be proven, even though other members of the board be called upon to review the operation of the business office."

"In sending this letter I have assumed that the committee has demanded a full and impartial hearing of the entire matter. I feel, as I have said above, that in the interest of time, we should now be specific and eliminate generalities and exclude from the record irrelevant testimony. If specific charges could be named, then when a witness appeared and the testimony given is not relevant, it could be stricken from the record at the time by action of the committee. In this way, the record would not be so voluminous and the judgment in the matter would be more definite."

"In closing I trust that none of the committee will take offense at my stand. My name has been dragged into the public eye on allegations that are libelous in character. I have tried to serve the children of the city of Atlanta through its board of education. I have not played politics, but rather attended to my job and my only desire now is that the full truth shall prevail."

"Respectfully yours,

"Assistant Superintendent of Schools In Charge of Business Affairs."

HAVANA WORKMEN RESUME LABORS

HAVANA, March 21.—(AP)—With their 24-hour strike in protest against unemployment over, Cuba's workmen went back to their jobs today.

Street cars and omnibus lines again operated, relieving the partial tie-up of yesterday.

Both in Havana and over the island the strike passed quietly, with so far as is known, not a single arrest being made. President Machado told leaders of five labor organizations who called upon him that he was impressed with their attitude and that the government was prone to view the strike as legitimate as long as manifestations were peaceful and property was not menaced.

The strike began at midnight Wednesday and gained some recruits during the day Thursday until virtually every union, except those engaged in operation of utilities and the railroads at least was partially represented.

Sanguine Feud of Rothstein, Diamond Brothers Is Related

BITTER BATTLE OF LATE GAMBLER TOLD BY DETECTIVES

BY H. ALLEN SMITH, United News Staff Correspondent.

NEWARK, N. J., March 21.—A story of a bitter feud between the late Arnold Rothstein, nabob of Broadway racketeers, and the Diamond brothers, Jack and Eddie, rivaling in its every detail the most sanguinary of Chicago's gangland wars, was told here today by Frank Rex, chief of Newark detectives.

Rothstein's feud with the Diamond boys led not only to his own death, Rex believes, but left a trail of bullet-riddled bodies across the country—a trail that ranges from Broadway to the Capitol Hill apartment district of Denver, from the mud flats of Jersey to the elegant hotels of Coral Gables.

At least seven men died because of the furious feud, says Rex, who has evolved his theory of the Rothstein-Diamond war after months of intensive sleuthing on the part of his detectives.

The key that brought forth the story was the identification of the body of Eugene Conner, lieutenant of Rothstein, according to Rex. Moran's body, burned beyond recognition and with a bullet hole through the head, was found in a swamp near Newark last August 9. It was not identified until this week.

A few days before he was mysteriously shot down in a New York hotel in the fall of 1928, Rothstein sent Moran, with several other gunmen, to Denver for the purpose of killing Eddie Diamond, Rex said.

Moran and his companions, armed with couple of submachine guns and two suitcases full of other armament, had just reached Denver when, on November 4, Rothstein was slain.

On the following day, the Newark police gunned waylaid Eddie Diamond on the streets of Denver and riddled his automobile with machine gun bullets.

Several days later Moran and one of the victims in this feud, Rex said, was killed in a New York hotel.

Others who were murdered in the feud, according to Rex, were Mortimer Schubert, racketeer who was shot in New York last November; Daniel Ahern, slain as a "squealer" in Cleveland last December 13; and Harry Vessey, beaten and shot to death in Hoboken last January 10.

While Rex was reciting his theory to newspapermen today, Jack Diamond, better known as "Legs," was released from the Tombs in New York after having been detained on a charge of murder. He was accused of killing two men in the Hotzy Totsy Club, but the district attorney granted him release because of lack of evidence.

Diamond was rearrested by federal authorities on a narcotic charge. He furnished bail and when asked late today by the Newark police story of the last surviving principal of the alleged feud, remarked cryptically:

"That sounds like Jersey. Those guys certainly have got an imagination."

DOLDRUMS STEEL GRIP LONDON NAVAL PARLEY

BY FRANK H. KING, Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 21.—(AP)—As the London naval conference opened its 60th day, the only woman in the delegation of the ring, was said by the Daily Mail today to have motivated Lord Balfour, the British premier, to end the conference with his death at the age of 81.

The Mail, which said its information came from a close friend of the dead statesman, explained that when Balfour was about 27 years old he fell in love with the Honorable Miss Lytton, daughter of the late Viscount Cobham. He bought a ring to seal the engagement between them but she died suddenly while he was on his way to present it.

In after years the earl never referred to his engagement and when asked why he did not marry always turned the question away lightly. The Mail said that once, however, he told a friend he had not married because in early life he proposed to have a career of naval architecture.

"But would marriage have made a great difference?" he was asked. He replied: "It would have made a very great difference. Think of the sweet clutter of things about the house."

Lord Balfour's body was dispatched last night from Woking, Surrey, where he died, to his home in London. Gerald Balfour, who succeeds to the title, is to be buried in London. A train will take it to East Linton, the nearest station to his home, Whitteyburn, where the funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Rangers Are Probing Texas Murder Plot

FAIRFIELD, Texas, March 21.—(AP)—With characteristic tight-lipped methods, Texas rangers today were investigating the story of Miss Wilma Jones, 23, of Buffalo, Texas, that she had been lured to a bed in Fairfield's only hotel by an unidentified man last Wednesday night in an attempt to burn her to death. She was not injured.

G. S. Moore, Oakland (Texas) businessman, arrested at his home in the near-by town soon after the alleged attack and charged with assault to murder and arson, claimed he had been framed by persons who were attempting to extort money from him. He said he was married and the father of a child. Tonight he was free on $10,000 bond. The whereabouts of the young woman remained a secret, officers declaring they had taken her to a place where she would be safe from further attack and where she could receive medical attention for an ailment.

County Attorney W. V. Geppert said the rangers and county officers had under investigation three theories, including that of self-imposed bonds.

Assistant Cashier Thwarts Robbery

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP)—Three years ago E. J. Eckman, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Riverside, concealed a rifle in his cage. Today he used it, shot one bank robber, captured another, and recovered $2,000 in cash that had been taken from him.

Walter Young, who said he was from Kansas City, was wounded, perhaps fatally. Ben Howard, his companion, was captured.

MICHIGAN WOMAN DIES ON JOURNEY

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Katherine G. Wessel, 40, of Jackson, Mich., died last night at the Royal Palm of the Southern Railway system. Mrs. Wessel, according to the Pullman conductor, apparently in good health, was stricken shortly after having dined and succumbed a few minutes later. The body is being held in a local mortuary pending location of relatives in the Michigan City.

'POLITICAL REFUGEE' APPEARS IN LOUISIANA

Marshall, Sought by Mississippi Legislature, Issues Statement.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—(AP) Carl Marshall, self-term "political refugee" from Mississippi, was today in New Orleans, after putting state boundaries between him and the disciplinary agents of the Mississippi house of representatives which sought to imprison him for refusal to answer questions propounded by its "roving" committee.

Mr. Marshall's presence in the city became known last yesterday through an announcement of a Columbia attorney, that the much sought committee witness was preparing a statement.

Marshall received callers and chatted affably, saying that he would remain outside the state of Mississippi until he was properly advised that Governor Bilbo would yield to the house of representatives in the matter of his pardon, or that the house would yield to the governor. He affirmed that he neither state to prevent a possible "armed clash" between state militia and sergeants-at-arms of the house of representatives.

In his statement the former state senator said:

"These are briefly the facts. The committee was appointed to investigate the official acts of officers of the state of Mississippi. I was summoned before that committee and gave it all the information that I possessed of that character. The committee then endeavored to have me answer questions that would reveal information that I had come into possession of as a lawyer or that I had received confidentially and that had no bearing on the official conduct of any official of the state."

"I declined to answer such questions unless I was first relieved from the personal and professional privileges that I was honor bound to respect. The house thereupon committed me to contempt, and the governor of the state pardoned me."

The special house committee investigating the alleged settlement of an anti-trust suit brought against Warden Brothers, Boston highway material firm, by payment of $80,000 by the firm's general counsel, George B. Crafts, asked Marshall whether any Mississippi state officials had shared in the money. He was ordered jailed when he refused to answer, and immediately pardoned by Governor Bilbo.

He disappeared when the house decided to ignore the pardon and incarcerate him anyhow.

Meanwhile in Jackson, Miss., doubt prevailed as to whether Marshall's offense was extraditable. Some members of the special committee were of the opinion that it was not, while Governor Bilbo contended that it was, being classed as a misdemeanor.

Resigns as President, Becomes Bank Janitor

LINCOLN, Neb., March 21.—(UN) Nebraska's new banking law, passed by a special session of the legislature, has convinced one state bank president the job of janitor looks better to him than being the bank president.

His opinions were expressed in a letter today received by George W. Woods, state bank commissioner.

"Under the new banking law," he wrote, "we note all bank employees, except stenographers and janitors, will be required to give bond."

"Accordingly, I have resigned as president, my wife has resigned as vice president and cashier. I have been elected janitor and she's my stenographer. We hope it will work, for no one else seems to want the jobs we have vacated."

Woods failed to reveal the name of the bank officer or the town where the bank is located.

Technicality Blocks Bus Regulation Bill

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—Final passage of the Parker bill to place interstate bus lines under federal regulation was blocked in the house today by a parliamentary technicality.

When the measure reached the stage for a final vote Representative Rankin, democrat, Mississippi, demanded reading of the engrossed copy which automatically forced the vote over until the next legislative day, which will be Monday.

The bill would provide that the interstate commerce commission have jurisdiction over motor carriers operating in more than one state, with power to require a just and reasonable rate schedule and to exercise other supervisory powers.

Opposition to the measure was based on the contention that the states already have sufficient authority to regulate the motor carriers, and that the federal commission would be able to fix rates arbitrarily.

A FULL VOTE PRIMARY.

The aroused people of Atlanta will no longer tolerate the primary system of nominating councilmen by wards. They demand a citywide vote.

They are minded now to finally smash the ward nomination of councilmembers—a system that has loaded upon them a condition that has disgraced the city.

The city government belongs to the people and they intend to repossess themselves of it.

Councilman Berman proposed to council to go on record as endorsing the nomination of councilmen by city-wide voting upon all of them. But the ward tagged council dodged the issue with acrobatic agility, refusing to register on it, on the excuse that this was a matter with which the city executive committee should deal.

Now the demand is made upon the city executive committee to "go democratic" and to order that the nominations in the next primary shall be made by city-wide voting upon every person offering for a place in the councilmanic boards.

WHEN CITY COMMITTEES BE-GAN TO ORDER WARD NOMINA-TIONS THEY PLAINLY PERVERTED THE CITY CHARTER WHICH REQUIRES CITY-WIDE VOTING IN ALL COUNCILMANIC ELEC-TIONS.

THERE IS NO LAW, BY CHARTER OR STATUTE, AUTHORIZING WARD PRIMARIES.

It is the creation of the city executive committee alone and nobody is bound by it except those who voluntarily submit to it.

There is no law justifying ward councilmanic nominations.

The people also know for an undeniable fact that this city had no official scandals, no charges of corruption and graft, no plain cases of councilmanic brokerage and profiting, UNTIL THE WARD NOMINA-TION SYSTEM WAS UNFOR-TUNATELY PUT UPON THEM.

It is but fair to assume that the city executive committee, knowing the state of the indignant public mind, will order the next primary to be conducted on the full city vote plan. No plausible reason for not doing that can be conceived and any offered will not be accepted by the people.

Should they be arbitrarily requisitioned by the city committee to repeat ward nominations they will refuse to be so bound and will go forth like an army with banners to recapture their rights, honor and property by independent action at the polls in the regular election in December.

Ward nominations will not again be submitted to and The Constitution will not hesitate to back the people in revolting against them even if such revolt smashes the city primary system.

And it will do that very thing if the city executive committee orders anything else than a city-wide primary.

TRUCKS ON THE HIGHWAYS.

The problem of regulating freight-carrying trucks on the paved highways of the states is being brought into discussion and legislative proposals in several of the leading commonwealths. Most of the paved highways have not been constructed to bear the heavy weights carried by many styles of modern auto trucks. They are being built with increasing tonnage capacity and many of them powered to tow one, two and three additional heavily-loaded trailers, with the result of badly damaging the roadbeds.

Quite naturally highway authorities and the people who pay for the roads object to their being broken down by the truck owners who are forcing tonnage drafts in order to increase their transport profits. The right to limit the truck loads, except on bridges, is lacking in the highway laws of many states, so that legislation is needed to empower highway and public service authorities to limit truck tonnage and prohibit the towing of trailers.

It is against public policy and the rights of the people in their costly property to have their highways ravaged and destroyed to satisfy the cupidly of common carriers of freight for profit. Now that there is to be a speeding of road construction in Georgia at the price of many millions of dollars, prompt and effective steps should be taken to prohibit the truck menace to the people's highways.

THE IOWA ROAD POLICY.

An inspection of the highways map of the state of Iowa shows a marvelous and rapid development in that state of a trunk line and county co-ordinated system of hard paved roads scarcely rivaled in any other state. It proves beyond debate the wisdom of the policy of building the cross state main traveled lines first of all and then constructing the laterals to connect every county seat with the trunk lines system.

Five years ago Iowa had, like Georgia, only a few finger length paved roads radiating from such centers as Des Moines, Sioux City, Waterloo and Davenport—short lines starting somewhere and ending practically nowhere, and wholly disconnected from other state and county centers. Now, since 1925, when the concrete paved roads were 502 miles, the paved roads on January 1 of this year were 2,317 miles, the gravelled all year roads were 3,436 miles, and the 1930 program calls for 4,000 more miles of improved concrete roads. When the program is complete, say in 1933, there will be 5,000 miles of concrete paved roads and 4,770 of permanent all weather gravelled roads, making the total surfaced roads 9,770 miles.

This demonstrated Iowa lesson should not be lost by the people of Georgia. They want exactly the system that is being so rapidly brought to completion in Iowa and they should be willing for the highway commission in this state to do the work as the people of Iowa are permitting their highway authorities to do it.

Chairman Tate, not given to ho-mum or talking through his hat, has frankly told the people of the state that if the highway commission is left to pursue the like policy of building the cross-state main lines first and then connecting them to the county seats in the order of their needs, the money is in sight to give Georgia her devised system in a completed state in five years;
but if the board is to be interfered with from scores of sources and by impeding local influences, it will be 25 years before the system as needed can be completed. And by that time it is likely that the earlier parts of the system will have been broken down and be demanding reconstruction.

The highest wisdom the people can now show is to sit steady and patient, trusting to our fully competent highway authorities to go forward sanely and rapidly to "put Georgia out of the mud!"

Those Idaho senators are not "two souls with but a single thought." Senator Thomas announces that "I am paired with the senior senator from Idaho, Senator Borah. If he were present he would vote aye and I would vote nay."

Ex-Secretary Daniels made a perfectly unnecessary trip to Washington to inform the house judiciary committee that he favors prohibition.

Premier Tardieu has returned to the London party—we hope to put tar on the axles of the creaking con-traption.

On April 8 late at night Senator Deneen will learn whether he has been "done in" by Ruth McCormick.

The fellow who will "believe anything" is the one who believes prohibition is "all wet." Sounds contradictory, but is it?

Wickersham's ipse dixit on 2.75 took all the amber color out of Dyer's beer vat.

This shrinking from publicity by Al Capone is something brand-new in gangland tactics.

Since their touted "demonstrations" in our midst petered out so miserably the "reds" are now blue.

Andy Mellon, looking at Jim and Joe, doubtless says to himself "how happy I'd be with either were I other darned fellow away!"

Why wouldn't Lowell be an appropriate name for that new planet that he figured was out there some 25 years ago?

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN

Israt's Reasons.

Having at last discovered the whereabouts of Panat Israt, the Rumanian story-teller, who has recently upset the whole communist world in Europe with his mordant criticism of soviet ways and conditions, we found a thin-faced individual with great big dark eyes, that had nothing of the ferocious revolutionary that one may imagine from his books. Is-rat gave his reasons for electing to take out French citizenship papers:
"I was fully determined," he said,
"to settle permanently in soviet Russia, but the manner in which those in charge of the country are murdering the ideal of the revolution has come away. I escaped with my life when it became known in Russia that I wanted to leave. Had it not been for the intervention of the French ambassador, I would have been sent into the depths of Siberia, which would have meant certain death to me (Israt's sum of tuberculosis is of the lungs). Back in France I wrote my three books and had accepted a lecture tour in Egypt. I sailed from Trieste on an Italian ship. When we dropped anchor before Alexandria
I was notified that I would not be permitted to land. This by request of the Rumanian legion. Still, I have never offered Rumania," he added. "I have only sought to soften the rigors of suppression and oppression to which all liberals in Rumania are subjected." The ship left four days later with Israt on board. Arrived in Trieste, the fascist police promptly arrested him. His passport called for passage through Italy on the way to Egypt, not to come back to Italy. The Rumanian consul did nothing for him, of course. But the French embassy in Rome and the French consul in Trieste created such a stir that the fascists let him go after 20 hours detention. Under escort he was led to the French frontier and there liberated. "I am very grateful," said Israt, "to the French for their aid. I will never forget a French citizen." The French press, needless to say, is extremely proud and happy over Israt's decision, and counts the acquisition of so eminent a writer, whether he has revolutionary ideas or not, as a valuable asset to French citizenship.

Napoleon's Trick.

A news dispatch tells us that when Amanullah regained the throne of Afghanistan he is going to give escort to his father, King Amanullah who fought for him in the campaign against the "Son of the Water-Carrier" a handsome present and a decoration. Son of the Water-Carrier is a title given to the son of a tribesman who is elevated to a superior rank, to the nobility they would say in European countries. In this way the wily emir, who is descended from the wise King Solomon, intends to create a corps d'elite around him, a bodyguard of devoted followers who will go through thick and thin for him. The idea is a good one. Napoleon practiced it and fared well by it. The emperor even went so far as to employ an ingenious sort of charlatanism to bind his men to him. He used to give the order to his adjutants, as Bourienne tells in his memoirs, to find out the soldier who had distinguished himself in some battle and who had not received a cross yet. "Find out his name, father-name, place he was wounded, his religion, everything, everything, everything," the emperor would say. Of course such a soldier was easily found. When the emperor appeared on the parade ground he would order his adjutant discreetly tell him where the soldier stood in the ranks. Napoleon walked by the ranks as if occupied with other thoughts. Then he turned to the soldier, he would suddenly look up and say: "Ah, didn't I see you at Austerlitz? How is your father getting along? Is he still alive? You haven't got the cross yet. That's a shame. I know very well what a brave soldier you are and you are not decorated. Bonaparte ordered me to give you a cross. I will give you one now. He is a good man, a brave man, a man decorated on the spot. In this way the legend grew up in the army that Napoleon knew all his soldiers and their families while in reality he had forgotten about their affairs the next moment.

Pure Nordics.

A ferocious "racist" paper in Germany advocates the cold-blooded massacre of all illegitimate "inferior" behind by soldiers of the Rhineland occupation armies. It makes an exception for children born of English soldiers and German women. As they are Nordics they would be permitted to live
but the offspring of Senegalese troops, Frenchmen, French Belgians, etc., are to be killed off because they would only contaminate the pure Teutonic strain which isn't even Teutonic in the case of Prussians but Slavic, a fact which the "racists" so easily forget. The idea of creating a new race of men has always haunted some Germans. Frederick I already had the notion when he saw to it that his seven-foot grandsons, the Kaiser and his heirs, were of pure blood.
Sometimes the king got more than he bargained for, as M. Voltaire observed while he journeyed in Prussia.
Once Frederick saw a strapping girl working in a field, and at once the idea came into his head that if he married her to one of his general officers, Prussia could only benefit with a dozen or so gigantic soldiers some years hence. So the king called the girl over, asked her name, and gave her his note to the commander of the guard at Potsdam. The note ordered that the bearer was to be married at once to one of the staff, a certain Count Herdrick. The girl couldn't read and didn't think much of the paper the king gave her anyway. So she gave it to an old haz whom she met on the road. The gypsy went to Potsdam, and presented the king's order. She married the count. Years later Frederick inquired as to the number of children he was greatly disappointed when he was shown two swarthy little rascals.

Sermons To Live By

BY ELAM FRANKLIN DEMPSEY.

Text: "And be not conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your minds, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."
Romans 12:2.

There is not anyone who understands himself at all but that knows he might be a better man than he is.
There is the call of the higher man within us at all times bidding us,
"Come up higher!"

This is perhaps the sublimest thing in man.

He who responds to it is saved; he who neglects it is lost.

And yet everyone finds, in responding to it, that his efforts are futile save only as the Divine helps aid him to succeed.

It is the spirit that transforms us.
There is a story told of a young woman—a relative of Ruskin—who had been given by a friend of her father a beautiful silk handkerchief.

"By accident," she overheard the lady on it as she lay on the table and soiled a good part of it.

"She went until her heart literally

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My Dear Louise:

A year or two ago the members of your class, properly chaperoned by teachers, commandeered a school bus and went to the country for a moonlight weiner roast.

The bus was home in good time, but broke down on the way and left you stranded.

Fortunately, or unfortunately, two of your classmates had scorned the democracy of the bus and borrowed a cheap coupe for the adventure. These now came to the rescue and volunteered to bring you all to town, three at a load.

Of course you were first to accept their offer, and of course you returned with them for a second load when the first was discharged.
Moonlight adventures are rare, and you were determined to make the most of the opportunity.

Somewhere on that return journey the driver of your car was blinded by approaching lights and swerved too far. You made an unsuccessful attempt to throw the windshield.

The chaperones, thinking all was well, had come home in their own car; and when you failed to appear on time, we called them on the telephone to make inquiry. They went back to finish their job.

Thirty minutes later they appeared to make their report. They were hysterical. The coupe had been found in a ditch—shattered and empty.
"They can't be very badly hurt," one of them said, "for there wasn't much blood!"

I had been keeping a tight rein on my fears, for the house was full of guests and I didn't want your mother unnecessarily alarmed; but when the chaperon offered her encouraging deduction, my nerves blew up.

The car wrecked; glass shattered; blood—mute evidence of horrible tragedy, and my kid swallowed up by the night. You might be broken and dead in some farm home. You might be on the way to some hospital, unconscious and dying.

I ran out to the garage, climbed into the first car and began to kick frantically at the starter. By the mercy of heaven I missed it six times in succession, for if the car had got under way, with me at the wheel in that condition, it would have ended its career against some tree or building within sixty seconds.

While I was still kicking at the inoffensive footboard, Dr. Redick came down the driveway to tell me the good news. You had stopped at his drug store for first aid and were then at Dr. Thomason's home having stitches taken in a scalp wound.

That was all. A little cut, and a scar that wouldn't show. You couldn't even enjoy bandages next day.

But sometimes at night I relive those agonizing minutes when you were not to be found, and a little more of my scant hair turns white.

Last night you were offended when I wouldn't let you go to the city to enjoy a movie. "Seventeen years old," you thought, "and still can't go out at night!"

But there are so many wrecks on that road at night, and what have I done to you that you should be willing to cause me four hours of unnecessary fear and dread?

Love,
DAD.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

BY DR. S. PARKES CADMAN.

Boston, Mass.

Do not the available statistics clearly indicate that the churches are declining? I have read them repeatedly from various sources and they seem to me to point that way. What in your opinion is the reason for the decline in membership?

The figures certainly do not warrant our complacency. There is small comfort for any of the churches in the returns of members actually gained. Spiritualists, Theosophists and Christian Scientists are no better than the older forms of religion. But statistics are woefully misleading. The quantitative element is never as important as the qualitative in spiritual matters.

We should be less disturbed by decreases in the attendance and membership of churches and synagogues, indeed, than by the decline of vital importance to religious life and activity. In "Ambassadors of God," a book written ten years ago, I endeavored to show that the Church should be the interpreter of the message of Christ, even as He is God's other self. She does not flourish at the preacher's behest, nor for his convenience, but because she is the run through all her ordered channels.
Nor is preaching a declamatory ritual to be venerated as such, regardless of its quality or effect. Priest and prophet should blend in a fully equipped pastorate, as they did in the case of Ezekiel. They exist for the church, not the church for them, and for humanity as a whole, not for sectarian groups and their peculiarities of belief. ("Ambassadors of God," pp.
16-163.)

The priest takes what the prophet's vision discerns and gives its corporate forms. The prophetic realm has widened in our day. Its objectives are no longer confined to any single sphere. Contemporary scientific and industrial achievements demand that the religion we teach shall be quick-and alive, and adapted to the secular methods of Christ, and by every other approved avenue of spiritual fellowship with Him. He is a "High Priest forever," and all believers depend upon him for the interpretation of these reasons I deplore the false distinction drawn between the priest and the prophet. Every Christian ministry is a ministry of the word, and more this truth is recognized, the greater will be the benefits of his ministry.

Any physician of standing who does surgery may do the operation for bow-legs. It is a simple operation. Of course the patient must be guaranteed. No honest doctor can or will guarantee any treatment. Only quacks pretend to guarantee cures. But this operation is safe and simple, not for operations go, and if I were a girl with bowlegs I'd have it as soon as I could find the right doctor to do it.

The right doctor simply will not consent to do such an operation if the bowing is a mere bandy-leggedness. The leg must bow, and no mistake before a reliable surgeon will consent to correct the deformity.

Some readers may have vague recollections of the unhappy outcome of such an operation a year or two ago, as the case was described in the newspapers. That should not deter any girl who really needs this operation.

That affair was just a good lesson to the only one who could use it in choosing a doctor or a specialist. Beware the quack who solicits business.
No reliable physician, surgeon or specialist attracts patients in that way.

There are many surgical procedures that are undertaken solely for the alleviation or correction of cosmetic faults. So-called "plastic surgery," quite as safe as any other kind of safely performed operation by a doctor of recognized professional standing. And remember, no such reliable, reputable doctor caters for customers or patrons or victims.

For that matter, if a doctor can really do anything better than the general run of doctors, he has only to it, and his satisfied patients will see to it that the word shall bear path to his door. On the other hand, if a doctor is a dud or an incompetent, an actual practice, there is no way to attract patients in that way for him to catch a little business. If his moral nature is weak, he readily takes to quackery.

'Everybody's Business'

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR.

Bank of England Reduces Discount Rate—High Grade Bonds To Have Active Support—Federal Reserve in Strongest Financial Position.

Few people expected the Bank of England to reduce its discount rate from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent on Thursday. But it did and thereby met the Federal Reserve Bank of New York's rate for the second time in two weeks.

Money is cheap all over the world.
The principal central bank rates now stand as follows:

England, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York 3 1/2 per cent. France, 3 per cent, the cheapest rate. Nearly all the other reserve and central banks of foreign nations vary from 4 to 4 1/2 per cent.

Will New York again lower its rate from 3 1/2 to 3 per cent? Will this be followed by England and other nations? It looks very now. Some even believe that several central bank rates will get down as low as 2 per cent.

Naturally, the average reader says:
"I am paying 6 per cent for my money —who is borrowing this money at 3 and 4 per cent?"

It is surely that this interest is what banks pay for their rediscounts —that is, for the money which they borrow at wholesale from the central banks. Many of them borrow at 4 per cent and loan at 7 per cent. But this spread is narrowing now. Many banks which were receiving 7 and 8 per cent last year, customers six months ago are receiving 5 to 5 1/2 per cent today.

Call money rates have been around 2 per cent this week whereas a year ago they were 10 per cent.

Commercial paper rates are now 4 to 4 1/2 per cent, whereas they were 6 to 8 per cent last year.

Rates on 60 to 90-day acceptances are now from 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 per cent compared with 5 1/2 per cent last year.

Now what do these cheaper rates signify? Certainly one thing stands out in the picture. Bonds—the assessed high-grade bonds—are going to have an active support during the next few months.

It almost invariably follows that bond prices rise as interest rates decline.

The federal reserve member banks have more money idle now than they have had for months. They are expected to be heavy purchasers of investment bonds during the next year.

So will the federal reserve bank itself buy heavily for its investment account, as its rediscounts are lighter now than they have been in years.

In the last statement which the federal reserve bank made this week bills discounted for member banks have fallen to the lowest level in 13 years—since 1917.

Last week the total amount rediscounted in the 12 federal reserve banks was $266,000,000. This week it is $205,634,000, hardly enough to pay expenses.

The week of July 10, 1929, was the peak period in the federal reserve for rediscounts in recent years. Then this item rose to $1,153,000,000. It seems a large item, but it is only today's figure. But in the year 1929
—the year of the last big inflation—rediscounts reached the total of $2,800,000,000—or about 14 times the total today.

The total gold holdings against federal reserve notes and demand deposits combined have reached $2.5 per cent, against 80.8 per cent last week.

Hollywood in Person

BY MOLLIE MERRICK

Special Dispatch to The Atlanta Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 21.—I suppose the biggest wedding of the year is the one which has Marion Devies for a bridesmaid. At any rate when Edith Mayer and William Goetz made the usual promises last night, hol polloi and the Bourgeoisie jammed streets leading to the Biltmore and gave the local traffic squad a busy evening. And the more enthusiastic civilians made the interior of the hotel look like all the conventions plus that have yet visited this land of "sunshine, fruit and flowers." (The phrase is lifted boldly and bodily from local columns.)

Bessie Love, Corinne Griffith, La
Davies, Carmel Myers and May Mc-Avoy were slipped in a side entrance all the glory of their turquoise blue crepe romaine empire frocks. (Hollywood is pronouncing it "om-peer" these days. We are in the midst of a veritable plague of culture.)

In case you're thinking of anything so foolish as a wedding this season, the latest in bridesmaid bouquets is a flat plaque of pink camellias thrown across the left arm with careful abandon. Every leaf in place but a merry Maytime spirit predominating nevertheless. Everyone wore long white bridal gloves.

Bride costumes don't vary much from year to year. This season's model wears her frock a bit tighter perhaps—and a few eels are added to the court train.

Everyone in Hollywood who amounts to anything at all was there in best bib and tucker. And when the village babs and tucks it's some-<

BABY SHOW TONIGHT ON AUDITORIUM STAGE

Children's Aid Society Sponsor for Event; 1,000 Baby Contestants.

Approximately 1,000 Atlanta babies will have the center of the stage at the auditorium and 30 of them will go back home as prize winners.

It will be the baby show which is being sponsored by the Children's Aid Society and sale of tickets through Friday night indicated that all the mothers and fathers and a lot of the baby in-laws will be on hand to boost their favorite entry in whatever ways they can.

There are 24 prizes awarded to the first, second and third place winners in four groups. Twelve are loving cups and there are 12 other prizes. In addition there are to be awarded three loving cups and three secondary prizes for the babies winning the most votes in the popularity contest.

Intermingled with the awarding of prizes will be music and entertainment and after all prizes have been given out everybody is invited to dance for the remainder of the evening.

Mothers are urged to have their entries on hand at the auditorium by 8 o'clock and to turn in their books of tickets at registration headquarters, 55 Forsyth street, by noon today so that all votes may be recorded before the show begins.

Officers of the Children's Aid Society of Georgia Saturday voiced appreciation for the interest which has been shown in the baby show and for the assistance of the firms and individuals who have helped to make it possible.

Four New 'Ginger' Victims Reported In Georgia Friday

Four additional Georgia cases of the "Jamaica ginger" paralysis which has claimed almost 400 victims in the south were reported at the state board of health Friday.

Two of the cases are at Elberton and two at Carrollton. Their addition brings the total in the state to fourteen.

T. F. Sellers, head of the state laboratories, to whom the reports were made, also said that it was thought other cases had developed in the neighborhood of Carrollton, but no authentic report of them had been received.

All the four new victims of the strange malady had been drinking Jamaica ginger, it was said, strengthening the opinion of medical experts that the disease had its origin in ginger used as a beverage.

The state laboratories had planned to begin experiments with guinea pigs Friday to obtain definite information as to the origin of the paralysis. Mr. Sellers said that the laboratories had been forced to postpone the experiments until next week. Three guinea pigs at Grady hospital are now being used upon Jamaica ginger in an effort to obtain definite data.

None of the new cases is a "dead" case, Mr. Sellers stated. The symptoms are the same as those in the other cases which have been reported in the state, a lack of feeling in and an inability to control the feet.

Two Social Events End Dental Meeting

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Fifth District Dental Society and the twentieth annual meeting of the Atlanta Mid-Winter Clinic is being observed jointly at a two-day session which opened at the Biltmore hotel Friday morning. More than 150 dentists of the fifth Georgia congressional district were called to order by Dr. J. G. Williams, president of the society.

During the day a number of noted dental authorities delivered talks and conducted clinics. The feature of the night program was a talk by Dr. E. C. Rosenow, of the Mayo clinic, an eminent authority, who spoke on the subject, "Oral Bacteriology."

The two-day session will end this afternoon with a barbecue on the lawn of the Druid Hills Golf Club at 7 o'clock, following a golf tournament this morning on the Druid Hills Club course.

HARDMAN INVITED
Governor Will Probably Attend Virginia Celebration.

Governor L. G. Hardman Friday received an invitation to attend a celebration at Cape Henry, Va., April 26, commemorating the landing of the first permanent English colonists in America.

The invitation was extended by Governor John G. Pollard, of Virginia, who acted on a joint resolution of the two houses of the Virginia legislature. Governor Hardman will probably attend the celebration, it was stated at his office.

The first landing of English colonists was at Cape Henry on April 26, 1607. A pilgrimage to the cape has become an annual custom in Virginia. This year the governors of the 13 original states will also be asked to attend.

CHURCH TO INSTALL NEW PASTOR SUNDAY

Central Presbyterian To Welcome Rev. Stuart Oglesby to Pulpit.

With Dr. Benjamin Rice Lacy, president of Union Theological seminary and a former pastor of the church, in attendance, Rev. Stuart R. Oglesby, who recently came to Atlanta from the First Presbyterian church of Hot Springs, Ark., will be installed as pastor of Central Presbyterian church, on Washington street, at 7:30 o'clock Sunday. Dr. Lacy will preach at both the morning evening services.

Rev. J. Spole Lyons, of the First Presbyterian church, will preside and propound the questions required by the church. Dr. Lacy will preach the installation sermon, Dr. R. L. Flannigan, of the West End Presbyterian church, will deliver the charge to the pastor, and Dr. Wade F. Boggs, pastor of Druid Hills Presbyterian church, will deliver the charge to the people.

Other members of the commission appointed by the Atlanta presbytery to conduct the installation services are Dr. Frank Talmadge, alternate for Dr. Boggs, with Elders Carl R. Cunningham and G. F. Nicolassen, alternate of the Gordon Street and Peachtree Road Presbyterian churches.

POSTOFFICE 'CLERKS' PRESIDENT IS VISITOR

Leo E. George, of Washington, D. C., president of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, will be a visitor in Atlanta today and Sunday.

Members of Local No. 32 have arranged several meetings in his honor.

There will be a dinner at the Ansley hotel tonight followed by a theater party at the Fox. Sunday morning will be spent in sightseeing around the city. There will be a special meeting of the local chapter at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Ansley hotel roof garden.

Mr. George has been on an extensive tour of Georgia and Florida and is now on his way back to Washington where he will participate in the activities of the National federation for the improvement of postal service and working conditions for postal employees.

Religious Faith Makes Nations Great, Kaye Says

The greatness of nations depends upon the sincerity of religious faith of their people, the Rev. J. Alfred Kaye, of London, England, asserted Friday at the international Bible conference in progress at the Baptist Tabernacle.

"It is the desire of individuals to do what is right that makes possible the great fabric of civilization," he asserted. "Without self-control involved in religion, laws would crumble and governments would collapse. It is the history of the world that godless governments invariably have fallen, not from outside attack, but from the impotence of human authority unsupported by religious faith."

The first week of the conference closed Friday night with a sermon by the Rev. Frank Crossley Morgan, of Augusta. Today has been set aside as a day of prayer for those participating in the conference and no public services will be held.

The Rev. L. Sale-Harrison, of Australia, arrives today to begin at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon a series of lectures on prophecy, to continue through the final week of the conference. His subject Sunday will be "Modern Palestine, the Greatest Movement of Our Times."

The Rev. J. Alfred Kaye will open the second and final week's program with an address to the Agoda class at 4 o'clock Sunday morning on "The Baptists of the World." Dr. A. F. Robertson, of Louisville, Ky., will preach at 11 a. m. on "A Walk With the Risen Christ." Professor E. O. Sellers, of New Orleans, will conduct an old-fashioned song service at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon with a lecture on origin of popular hymns. The Rev. J. Alfred Kaye will preach at 7:30 o'clock Sunday on "Alternatives to Christ."

Hit by Engine, Man Succumbs to Hurts

Injuries sustained when he was knocked down by a railroad engine near the Bolton, Ga., plant of the Georgia Power Company caused the death Friday of William Parks Grogan, construction engineer for that company. He died at St. Joseph's infirmary.

Mr. Grogan received injuries to his head, internally and suffered greatly from the shock. He apparently did not see the engine or hear it. He was brought to Atlanta by automobile immediately after he was knocked down by the engine but never regained consciousness.

Mr. Grogan, before joining the engineering staff of the power company, was for many years with Yenable Brothers as an engineer. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Grogan, pioneer residents of Pickens county. His father served in the Confederate army.

Surviving him are his wife, who lives at Lithonia; three children, Miss Stella Grogan, of Lithonia; Mrs. L. P. Forrest, of Louisville, Ky.; and J. H. Grogan, of Atlanta; two sisters, Mrs. John Cain, of Ball Ground, and Miss Jenny Grogan, of Lithonia. Another son, Candler Grogan, was killed in the World War.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed but will probably be held at Lithonia Sunday afternoon, it was said.

Draws 13 Months On Liquor Charge

J. C. Huddleston, Jr., was found guilty of possessing and selling liquor by a jury in federal court here Friday and was sentenced to 13 months in the federal penitentiary by Judge Samuel H. Sibbey. Execution of the sentence was postponed for 30 days on posting of $750 bond.

It was at the preliminary hearing of the defendant before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith that the charge was brought forth that his arrest came as the result of a threat on the part of a fellow townsman to "get him" because he had come out on the wrong end of a mule trade.

European Nations Will Join U. S. in Drive on Drug Traffic

Synchronized Crusade on Illicit Commerce To Be Launched Here and Abroad Soon.

BY H. ALLEN SMITH.
United News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, March 21.—European nations will join with the United States before the year is out in a synchronized crusade against international traffic in illicit narcotics, the United States learned Thursday from George J. Minter, assistant United States district attorney in New York.

Smuggling of dope into the United States has become such a formidable problem, Minter said, that only the concerted efforts of the nations in which the narcotics are produced and shipped, can serve to impede the traffic.

Discussing the constant increase in dope smuggling, Minter pointed to two bulky packages in a corner of his office.

"These packages," he said, "contain labels, and other containers—samples of shipments our agents have seized in recent months. The containers all bear definite marks of identification."

"I am sending the stuff to Washington, and it will be relayed to Geneva. At the world conference on narcotics this year, at Geneva, steps will be taken to have these articles placed in the hands of government agents in the countries where they originated."

There is no one great international dope ring, Minter said. There are several. Each is aware of the other's existence, and they exchange ideas.

The leaders of these rings are, in every sense of the word, master minds, according to Minter. They spend their time originating ingenious methods by which they may slip their shipments past the government barriers in the United States.

"In the first place," Minter said, "they have only one chance in ten of being caught. Customs inspectors can only examine 10 per cent of the baggage that comes into the country. It would be physically impossible to make a more complete check."

But the smugglers seldom make an open attempt to bring in illicit dope. Minter told of one shipment of 10 large cases filled with drugs. The cases, labeled as containing bowling balls and pins, were being imported for exportation to China. Such shipments, which are merely being routed through this country, are not inspected. They are unloaded at one pier, transferred to another pier, and leave the country.

Warehouse Raided.
The smugglers rented a warehouse in New York. The truck driver at the pier was brought into the deal. The shippers in Europe called minute descriptions of each of the cases. The truck driver, instead of going direct from one pier to the other, hauled the cases to the warehouse, unloaded them, loaded up 10 substitute cases which really contained bowling balls, and then completed his journey. The 10 substitute cases had been built by the cable instructions.

The principal reason for the enormous increase in traffic lies in the fact that profits are so high. Narcotics are produced in Germany, Holland and Switzerland, Minter said, at a cost of $50 a pound. After reaching the United States, the drugs are adulterated with sugar, water and various powders, until the original 16 ounces become 50 ounces. This adulterated product is then retailed at from $30 to $50 an ounce.

Drug addicts, Minter said, pay from $2 to $5 a day for their narcotics, and there are at least 10,000 addicts in New York city alone.

City Council To Get New Park Site Plan

Retention of park sites bought by the borough of Atlanta on a deferred payment plan through leases will be sought at the next meeting of council, it became known Friday.

City Attorney James L. Mayson is preparing a plan whereby the borough can save about $200,000 which already has been invested in the John A. White and the Chastain parks, and the matter will go officially to council for approval of that body Monday, April 1.

Judge Virgil B. Moore, of Fulton county superior court, has granted a permanent injunction to payment of annual purchase price payments on the tracts, and the city attorney, W. L. Moore, chairman of the finance committee of council.

Ban Against Lawyers Is Ordered Enforced

Lawyers and bondsmen who persist in "hanging around" police headquarters were the objects of a special order by Chief of Police James L. Beavers instructing station lieutenants and call officers to see that they were kept away from the station house, unless they were there on business.

Chief Beavers in his order stated that during the last few days his attention had been called to the fact that lawyers and bondsmen were frequenting police headquarters, either inside or in front.

There is a city ordinance which provides that lawyers and bondsmen shall not visit or idle in or around police headquarters unless on business. In Chief Beavers' written order he asked that this ordinance be enforced.

Airplane Requested To 'Pursue' Eclipse

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 21.—(AP) Use of a navy airplane to "chase an eclipse" has been requested by naval observatory officials in Washington, D. C., and the request will be granted, it has been announced at headquarters of the eleventh naval district.

The eclipse, a total eclipse of the sun, will be an exceedingly brief affair, according to word received here. Occurring on April 28, it will have a period of totality of only one and one-half seconds and its path of totality in eastern California, will be only half a mile wide.

While the navy is not sending a formal eclipse expedition, Mrs. Isabel M. Lewis, an astronomer in the astronomy department of the naval observatory, is taking leave and going to the scene at her own expense "to cover" the eclipse for the navy. Two photographic planes from North Island will be sent to Hovey lake, California, in the eclipse area, to operate in connection with her work.

Bible Course To Open.

Mrs. S. H. Askew will begin teaching the Normal Bible course at the North Avenue Presbyterian church Monday morning, March 24, at 10:30 o'clock and the classes will continue through Friday, March 28. The course will be based on the book of Romans and is primarily for Bible teachers in the various women's auxiliaries of the city.

RAZING OF CITY HALL TO BE BEGUN MONDAY

Work of razing the old Atlanta city hall will begin Monday, it was announced Friday by J. V. Fain, head of the company which will wreck the structure, after the concern had furnished a bond for performance of the contract to clear the tract within 90 days.

Mr. Fain filed an acceptable bond with Mayor L. N. Ragsdale Friday afternoon and under a ruling of City Attorney James L. Mayson, work can be begun at once.

Action of the mayor in accepting the Fain bond eliminates the necessity of re-advertising for bids and makes unnecessary a proposed special called meeting of council Monday to consider award of another contract for the work.

Under the contract which the borough government has with the Carling Hotels Co., Inc., of which Carling L. Dinkler is president, the borough will begin receiving $5,333 monthly in rentals just as soon as the cleared tract is turned over to the hotel company.

Police Recover Judge Thomas' Stolen Overcoat

Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton county superior court, likes his joke, but there's such a thing, he thinks, as carrying one too far. That's why he spoke rather sharply over the telephone Friday.

Sunday night his Honor's coat disappeared. It was purloined from his automobile, which had been parked in front of a church on Ponce de Leon avenue. Detectives found it in a pawn shop.

"We've got your coat," Detective Chief A. Lamar Poole telephoned Judge Thomas, who, still shivering, was in no humor for kidding. Minter said, "that's exactly what he thought was happening to him."

"I know you've got it," he shot back over the telephone, "but who are you?"

"Chief Poole."

"Oh, I beg your pardon."

The chief was promptly thanked and the coat was soon back home again.

Four Constables Jailed in Raid By Federal Men

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 21.—(AP)—Warrants for four constables, encountered by federal prohibition agents in a raid on a dwelling in the west end today in which two automobiles loaded with liquor were seized, were sworn out later in federal court.

It was a case of raiders arresting raiders, the constables, three of whom had given bonds of $2,000 before the end of the day, asserted.

The federal officers, warned of an alleged bracking operation, appeared in the rear of the home of W. B. Britling and stopped a man who came out of the house. He told them he was a constable making a raid and showed them a car containing six 10-gallon kegs of liquor and said more was in the house.

Then three other men came out of the house, said they were constables and showed the agents another car containing ten 10-gallon kegs. One of the cars, the agents said, was recognized as belonging to A. J. "Buddy" May, now under bond awaiting the start of a four-year sentence for bootlegging, and the constables were said to have explained they borrowed it for the raid.

Mrs. May was among those arrested and held under $2,000 bonds. The three constables held are H. H. Sagers, Hudson Walker and Frank Powell. The name of the other was not revealed.

State Distributing Diphtheria Vaccine

Free distribution of diphtheria toxin-antitoxin by the state board of health has been started, each county being entitled to sufficient quantity for 200 children between ages of six months and seven years.

Dr. T. F. Abernethy says this is the best known method for controlling diphtheria. Experience has shown, he says, that it is seldom that any vaccinated child develops diphtheria, although some require more injections than others. The average number of injections is three, although cases have been known where seven or five are required before the child is considered immunized.

As a means of encouraging early vaccination this year, the state board of health has announced that requests for free vaccine cannot be granted after June 1.

Quarrel With Woman Costs Man His Life

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—A. Newton, 32, of Detroit, Mich., identified as the wealthy son of a Detroit packer, died today from a bullet wound which he told authorities was self-inflicted as the result of a quarrel with a young woman.

Newton called a telephone operator at the Roney Plaza hotel where he had registered sometime ago, this morning and told her he had shot himself. Three doctors living on the same floor of the hotel were called and found him suffering from a bullet wound in the chest below the heart. He was not removed from the room, and died later in the day.

The wounded man told police that he shot himself as the result of a quarrel last night with a young woman, but did not give her name. Hotel employees said he had been seen frequently about the hotel with a young woman to whom they believed he referred.

Capitol Renovation To Be Awarded Today

Governor Opens Bids for Restoration of State House Friday.

From yellowed cook books of the old South have come the recipes from which every Foremost Special is made. Recipes evolved by women famed as much for the delights of their tables as their own gracious charm.

Today less time can be spent by the southern hostess on the intricacies of cooking but she still inherits a taste for fine foods. That is why she serves Foremost—smooth, delightfully flavored—made just as she would have made it herself.

The better dealers carry Foremost because they want to give their customers the best. Order this week's Special today. The two flavors in special Foremost packages, pints and quarts. Or Maple Cream Walnut in bulk.

All Foremost Ice Cream is made from rich cream pure cane sugar fresh fruits no cornstarch no synthetic flavors

Cold and Rain Due in Atlanta For Week - End

Atlanta's weather prospect for the week-end is far from pleasant, according to the latest official forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist, which calls for a cold, driving rain to start today and continue intermittently through a good part of Sunday. Shifting areas of high and low pressure in widely separated parts of the country are said to be responsible following a perfect spring-like day Friday with clear skies overhead and a comfortably situated mercury.

The temperature range today is scheduled to be from 40 up to approximately 52 while Friday's extremes were 48 and 60.

Only the fact that the latest cool wave is coming from the northeast instead of the northwest will keep real rigidity from this part of the country, the bureau chief explained. As it is, winds from the high pressure area in the northeast will be rushing into a low pressure area which is moving eastward from Texas and the result, as far as Atlanta is concerned, is described as "just too bad."

STUDENTS' CONTEST BRINGS HOG PUZZLE

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., March 21.—(AP)—Two University of Arkansas students tied for the honor of "most outstanding student." A razorback hog is the prize and its division a problem.

So today, the student body is pondering the same question propounded to the late King Solomon. To whom does it belong, and how will it be divided?

Millan Creighton, of Gothenburg, Neb., and Clarence Geis, of Haynesville, La., both outstanding football players and students extraordinary, were the ones selected for the honor.

Just that extra touch of richness that was the keynote of old-fashioned hospitality is in every Foremost Special today

Solicitor-general—serving subpoena.

Mr. Boykin—I object to what he thinks.

A—Sims—Is he getting more money?

A—Yes. Fifty dollars a week.

Q—What is Scott?

A—A manufacturing chemist.

Q—Did you have any other?

A—No.

Judge Humphries—The detail is not material.

A. S. Nance Testifies.

A. S. Nance, circulation manager of the Federation of Trades, and a member of the city bond commission, was called. His testimony was brief. He said that York did not appear for Rhodes or Wagar before the bond commission, and explained the method of handling bond appropriations. He was followed on the stand by A. D. Greenfield, another member of the city bond commission, who also was questioned about the Rhodes claim.

C. E. Kauffmann, city bridge and viaduct engineer, with the city for 20 years, was the next witness.

Mr. Sims—Do you recall what the estimate of the Rhodes property damage was?

A—Yes. It was $7,674.05.

Q—Did you increase your estimate later?

A—The estimate was increased on account of the heights of the ceilings.

Q—How much was the final estimate?

A—It was $8,441.46.

Q—The city paid $8,500?

A—Yes.

Q—On your recommendation?

A—Yes.

Q—Did Harry York have anything to do with your recommendation?

A—No.

Q—Did he ever speak to you about it?

A—No.

Q—In the Hugh Richardson case, did York ever approach you and ask you to increase your estimate?

A—No.

Q—Did he ever ask you to make an estimate not in keeping with your own judgment?

A—No.

A. S. Nance Testifies.

Mr. Howard took the witness.

Q—Who called your attention to the low ceilings?

A—Nobody. I discovered it myself.

Q—Do you know of any reason why the Rhodes estate should pay $425 to get it through?

A—No. I do not.

Q—Do you know why the estimate of $8,400 was held up weeks and weeks?

A—I don't know that.

Q—Did White ever talk to you?

A—No.

Q—Did York ever approach you?

A—No.

Q—Mr. Sims—Was he held up at all?

A—I don't know.

Mr. Howard—The estimate of the Rhodes estate was $9,000, and your estimate was $7,600. You never increased your estimate, but the committee compromised the claim?

A—No.

Q—Did the bridge commission show you a letter from Pittman, suggesting a settlement of $800?

A—It might have. I don't remember.

Q—Didn't Joe Rhodes suggest the settlement?

A—I didn't see him.

Mr. York next took the stand and made his first sworn statement, as given above.

Price on Stand.

W. P. Price, city purchasing agent, who is under indictment for defrauding the city, took the stand.

Mr. Sims—Did White control sales to the city?

A—Not that I know of.

Q—Do you know of any agreement like that?

A—No.

Q—If Grady hospital wanted an ambulance, could it be bought without the purchasing committee passing on it?

A—Certainly not.

Q—Did you buy Kissel?

A—If the city bought it, the committee bought it.

Q—In 1928, did you have a requisition for an ambulance?

A—Yes, I think so.

Q—What kind did you buy?

A—A Studebaker.

Q—Did you have an agreement with White about buying prices?

A—No.

Mr. Howard took the witness.

Q—Do you know O. H. Pendley?

A—Yes.

Q—During a conversation with him, did you say that the Southeastern Brokerage Company was a pain in your side, and that you wanted him to specify on his requisitions?

A—Yes.

Q—What price did you pay, the nearest to September 24, 1929?

A—I paid $1 a gallon on July 25, 1929. It was one dollar for the gallon.

Q—Mr. Holland said a number of invoices, showing purchases of the insecticide at $1 a gallon.

A—Yes. Some of the others were higher, but not as high as $2.50 a gallon.

Pendley Testifies.

O. H. Pendley, secretary to the police chief of Atlanta, was called to the stand.

Mr. Howard—You know Mr. Price?

A—Yes.

Q—You remember receiving a barrel of scrubbing powder at 13 cents a pound, and you returned it?

A—Yes.

Q—From conversations, what was the attitude of Price to the Southeastern Brokerage Company?

A—He never mentioned the Southeastern Brokerage Company specifically.

Q—In what connection was that statement made?

A—In connection with requisitions on that stuff. The first time he called he asked me not to make specific requests. A month later he called up and asked me to make specific requests.

Q—Did you converse on the price of the 13-cent scrubbing powder at the time?

A—No.

Q—Did you return it?

A—Yes. I returned it on account of the price.

Q—Did he ask you to specify by trade name?

A—Trade name or manufacturer.

Mr. Sims—Who ordered the powder?

A—He ordered it at 13 cents.

Q—But you might have found out about it before he knew about it?

A—He ordered it at 13 cents. I had a copy of the requisition.

At this point the evidence closed. Judge Humphries then announced that court would recess until 9 o'clock this morning, when arguments will begin. The arguments will be limited to one and a half hours to the side. The state will open and close, with the defense taking the middle argument.

NEGRO SNATCH-THIEF

IS ROUTED BY VICTIM

A negro youth, about 18 years old, was routed early Friday night in an attempt to snatch a pocket book from the arm of Mrs. M. P. Bullard, of 655 Cooper street, when she sought him and called for help. The affair occurred on Georgia avenue near Washington street, and was reported at police headquarters by Motorcycle Officers Reggie McLean and E. L. Bessell.

Amateur Dentist

Jailed for Pulling

Teeth of Woman

ST. LOUIS, March 21.—(UN.)

A dentist for collecting dental teeth landed Edwin Bentley, elderly retired small-town banker, in the St. Louis jail tonight.

Bentley, posing as a dentist, used a pair of forceps and a chisel to add three of her pearls to his collection. She had him arrested on charges of practicing dentistry without a license and common assault.

"He told me I had beautiful teeth," said Mrs. Rankin, "and asked me to allow him to clean them for me. When he got me into his chair he pulled three of them out instead."

Mrs. Rankin, who lives in a rooming house where they found two cases of dental teeth and several sets of women's teeth.

"You can have the instruments," he said. "But I would like to keep the teeth. Dentistry holds a fascination for me. The most beautiful thing in the world to me is a perfect set of teeth."

Bentley identified himself as a graduate of Cornell University 38 years ago and recently as a banker in Springfield, Mo.

HOOVER APPOINTS

PARKER TO COURT

tribution a little better than heretofore. The last man on the supreme bench from the judicial district which Judge Parker will represent was Justice Daniels, 70 years ago.

That appointment brought prompt praise from various members of the North Carolina delegation in the house.

Representative Jones, republican, North Carolina, said he had known Judge Parker from the days when they were at the university together.

"I have served with him for 15 years on the board of trustees of the state university, our alma mater," he said, "have practiced with him 15 years in the courts of North Carolina, and have practiced five years in the court of appeals over which he presided as judge. I regard him as the most perfect lawyer I have ever met. He is as magnificent a man physically as mentally. In college he carried off every honor and has continued to do so since. He is also one of the best loved men in our state."

"A young man, just 44, Judge Parker has sufficient ability to do honor to himself and to the great court he is to be a member of," said Representative Hammer, democrat, North Carolina. "He is not a partisan, and that is regarded as an asset to a man who is to be appointed to the bench for life."

"A very fine man, and a splendid judge," was the endorsement of Representative Abernathy, democrat, North Carolina.

Throughout North Carolina he has the reputation of being an able lawyer and an upright citizen," said Representative Doughton, democrat, North Carolina.

Representative Warren, democrat, North Carolina, college mate of Parker, pronounced him "a very able and high class lawyer and judge."

"I am delighted with the appointment of Judge Parker, and predict for him a brilliant career on the supreme court bench," said Representative Pritchard, republican, North Carolina.

The entire south knows Judge Parker as a man of exalted personal qualities and as an outstanding lawyer and judge," said Representative Rees, republican, Tennessee.

SHORT SKETCH

OF PARKER'S LIFE.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 21.—

(P)—Judge John Johnston Parker, whose nomination as associate justice of the supreme court was sent to the senate today by President Hoover, has for a number of years been prominent in the public life of North Carolina.

Judge Parker was born at Monroe, N. C., November 20, 1885, the son of John D. Parker and Frances Parker.

He is lineally descended from Governor Abner Nash, Revolutionary leader of the state.

Entering the University of North Carolina in 1903, he received his A. B. degree in 1907 and L. L. B. degree in 1910. While in college he served as president of the freshman and senior classes, Di society, athletic association and student council.

He was president of the Phi Beta Kappa during his senior year. In 1912 he was awarded an L. L. D. by the university.

Beginning the practice of law in Greensboro in 1908, he served that year as secretary of the republican campaign committee in the fifth North Carolina district. He moved to his home town of Monroe in 1910, and in 1910 he was the nominee of the republican party for congress.

In 1916 he was nominee of the republican party for the attorney generalship of North Carolina.

Judge Parker was nominated by his party for governor of North Carolina in 1920 and, although defeated by his democratic opponent, polled 230,000 votes, which was 63,000 more votes than any candidate for governor either party had ever received prior to that time.

Judge Parker moved to Charlotte in 1922 to take up the practice of law in this city. Continuing his public life, however, he was in 1923-24 special assistant to the attorney general of the United States. He was elected a member of the republican national committee and was a delegate at large from North Carolina to the republican national convention.

Judge Parker continued to practice law in Charlotte until he was appointed one of the United States circuit judges of the fourth circuit by President Coolidge in 1925. He holds that position now.

While practicing law Judge Parker was for one term vice president of the North Carolina Bar Association and has served as a vice president of the American Bar Association.

In 1910 Judge Parker was married to Miss Maria Burgwin Maffitt, of Wilmington. They have three children, John D., Jr., 15, and Francis Irrell, 6.

Judge Parker is prominent in church and social life.

PARKER PLEASED.

MAKES STATEMENT.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 21.—

(P)—Judge John J. Parker, apprised at his office here of Associated Press reports from Washington of his appointment to the supreme court, said he was "just what was that account?"

"That was Mr. Huston's trading account," Moore said.

The witness added that when he received the $14,100 Huston was away and he placed it into a separate account because he did not know what Huston wanted done with it.

"The records of the brokers," Walsh said, "show that money was utilized for the purchase of securities of one kind and another."

"Yes," Moore replied. "It was just money to me."

Did you figure out what profit you made on the stock transactions?" Walsh inquired.

"I think it showed about $300 and some odd," Moore said.

Fair Extended.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 21.—

(P)—The Florida state fair here was extended today for another week. G. R. Lewis, fair director, said he had been asked by Governor Carlton if the fair could not run for an additional week and said he had been promised the aid of civil leaders. Bad weather has prevented a good attendance during the first week of the fair.

DR. J. F. ROYSTER

FATALLY BURNED

University of North Carolina

Dean Deliberately Walks

Into Fire.

RICHMOND, Va., March 21.—(P)

Walking deliberately into a trash fire on the grounds of a sanitarium here, where he was a patient, Dr. James Finch Royster, 50, dean of the graduate school at the University of North Carolina, suffered burns this afternoon which caused his death.

According to Dr. H. Hall, Royster's physician, the North Carolina dean was tending the fire and gathering trash in the company of 10 or 12 other patients and nurses. Without warning, Hall said, Royster walked into the flames and his clothes were set on fire before the nurses could reach him.

His clothes were virtually burned from his body before the fire could be extinguished, Hall stated.

Upon examination, physicians found that the burns covered his entire body. There were evidences, it was stated, that he had also inhaled the flames. Death came within an hour.

County Coroner A. P. Traynham confirmed Dr. Hall's report at the inquest and delivered a verdict of burns self-inflicted.

Dr. Royster was on leave of absence from the University of North Carolina at the time of his death.

Washington Engineer

Lauds New City Hall

Atlanta's new city hall is one of the most beautiful buildings in the country, according to C. D. Nourse, engineer and architect of Washington, D. C.

Mr. Nourse, in company with Mrs. Nourse, was in Atlanta Friday and took occasion to call on Mayor J. N. Ragsdale.

He made a minute inspection of the building with L. Glenn Dewberry, superintendent of buildings and grounds. Following his survey, he declared the structure to be one of the most modern, most beautiful and one of the best constructed buildings of its type he has ever seen.

He was enthusiastic about the beautiful Georgian marble used in the corridors, and will recommend it in more of his buildings in the future, he said.

The Southwestern architect was a guest of Julian Y. Williams.

$5,000 Damages Asked

Against Finance Firm

A suit for $5,000 damages against the Atlanta Finance Company was filed in the city court of Atlanta by C. M. Cain, who charges that he had been injured by "abuses and misuses of the lawful processes of the law."

Cain charges that the defendants, "knowing the illegality of their claim," wilfully and wantonly served on him a writ of attachment against his employer, a garnishment based on a pending suit. Cain alleges that the defendants knew that they were engaged in a business directly contrary to the laws of Georgia, but to the rules and regulations governing the conduct of salary buyers, and that they were receiving said sums unlawfully and that the claims they held against petitioner were void, illegal and unenforceable at law.

The Atlanta Finance Company, M. R. Markham and G. H. Rosenbusch, owners of the stock of the corporation, and the Atlanta Finance Company, the plaintiff asks judgment against the defendants for the sum of $5,000, plus the costs of the suit.

The time of the garnishment there was served on the defendants a restraining order of superior court against the execution of the writ of attachment. Cain is represented by J. L. R. Boyd and V. K. Meador.

Tide Student's Death

Believed Accidental

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., March 21.—

(P)—A verdict of accidental death was returned here this afternoon by Coroner S. T. Hardin in the death of Willie Liegeheart, 25, of Elizabeth, Ala., who died while swimming in a pool of water at the University of Alabama medical student.

Coroner Hardin said Liegeheart, a former star football player at Central College, was drowned while playing with an automatic pistol. Liegeheart was a University of Alabama medical student.

chases, which he said "some times" were directed by Huston.

The republican chairman has denied knowledge that the $14,100 had been used for purchasing stock, but added that he believed the right to this money was in the hands of the committee.

The committee also questioned Fred H. Haggerson, president of the Union Carbide Company. He said he had contributed the $300 to Huston for use by the Tennessee River Improvement Association in advocating the proposal of the American Cyanamid Company to lease Muscle Shoals. He said his company had a contract to obtain part of the power if the Cyanamid bid was accepted.

Questioned about Huston's testimony yesterday that he had sold the Carbide Company maps and charts for the $38,100, Haggerson said:

"I wouldn't say that we bought them. I believe it was a consideration for the money we gave."

Huston testified that he and Haggerson agreed on the total amount of $38,100 before any payment was made, but Haggerson said that was not his recollection. He testified Huston solicited the money in two separate amounts.

Efficiency Predicted.

"I believe the new order of things has made it possible for the guard to function more efficiently, and that it will have co-operation, respect and admiration of all people of the state."

One of the principal points of contention in the national guard arose out of the annual and offering of Parker as adjutant-general, a number of officers offering opposition on grounds that Parker at that time was not a member of the guard.

The differences resulted in the ordering of court-martial for several officers, but the proceedings later were dropped before any of the cases went to trial.

Bond Award.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 21.—(P)

The South Carolina National bank was awarded the contract for the first $100,000,000 block of the $95,000,000 new highway bond issue this afternoon. The bank presented an unqualified bid based on a rate of 4 1/2 per cent per annum and offering a premium of $235,736, making the actual rate.

Despite threats by opponents of the issue, no efforts were made to take legal action to stop the sale.

Gang Chief Returns

NEW CIVIL STRIFE

IS LOOMING IN CHINA

PEIPING, China, March 21.—(P)

Threats of civil war in China have reached such a stage that Chang Hsueh-liang, governor of Manchuria, has stepped in as mediator, sending a peace appeal both to President Chiang Kai-shek and Yen Hsi-shan, governor of Shansi.

Mukden dispatches report that Chiang Kai-shek replied first saying that he always desired peace and that he was willing to accept Chang's suggestion. Yen stated that since the various Shansi and Kuomintang commanders had issued a circular telegram to the people urging him to fight and to lead their northern battles, he himself could not decide the attitude of the northerners on Chang's proposition.

Although the vernacular newspapers continue to assert that Yen plans to establish a separate government at Peiping, the Kuomintang

House Committee Approves Stringent Dry Measures

Makes Legal Padlock Notice Service by Publication and Legalizes Interstate Arrests by State Police.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—Attention of the house judiciary committee will be turned from hearings on measures to repeal the eighteenth amendment next week to the law enforcement commission's proposed legislation to strengthen dry law execution.

With the prospect of dry forces ending their presentation of witnesses on Wednesday, the committee set aside Thursday for consideration of five measures formulated by a subcommittee to carry out in modified form recommendations of the enforcement commission.

The sub-group approved the last two of the measures today. One would make more effective the padlock law by authorizing serving through publication absentee owners of liquor dispensing establishments. The second would authorize state officers to arrest on federal charges operators and occupants of automobiles conveying liquor. It also would authorize confiscation under the federal laws of liquor-laden automobiles.

The subcommittee discarded a commission proposal because of failure of agreement to define slight and casual violators of the dry laws; it referred to the full committee without recommendation, however, a bill by Representative Stobbs, republican, Massachusetts, to amend the Jones law to fix the maximum penalty for misdemeanor cases at six months in jail and a fine of $500.

It also referred in a like manner a bill by Representative Christopher, republican, South Dakota, to amend the United States criminal code to define all misdemeanor cases under the federal laws.

The fifth measure would broaden the powers of the United States commissioners to permit them to handle misdemeanor liquor cases in order to relieve federal court congestion. Representative Christopher, chairman of the subcommittee, said that the full group held a divided opinion on some of the measures and expressed doubt that early action would be forthcoming on them.

Chairman Snell, of the house rules committee, expressed the opinion that there was little prospect for the passage of any of these measures during the present session in view of other pending legislation.

In the meantime, however, the wet and dry who have been voicing their views on prohibition are preparing for a spectacular finish to the hearings before the judiciary committee. Although the drys have not completed their Wednesday program, F. Scott McBride, of the Anti-Saloon League, and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of the Methodist board of temperance, are expected to appear.

The following week, Chairman Graham plans to give the wet an opportunity to offer rebuttal testimony. None of the members of the committee expect a bill to either modify or repeal the amendment will be reported at this session.

Police Chief Plans Drive on Bridge Games

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Chief of Police Lillian Craig announced today "now that I have closed all gambling houses which to my knowledge have been operating in Fort Lauderdale my next step will be to make raids on bridge games."

"The way that bridge is played here is as much gambling as the other chance games about which some of our best women have complained so much of late," he said.

FLEEING RUM SUSPECT SLAIN BY OFFICERS

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark., March 21.—(AP)—Fleeing from officers who sought to arrest him on a charge of manufacturing liquor, Henry McMurta, 40, was shot and killed near here.

Harvey Meadows, a deputy sheriff, was said to have fired the shot which killed McMurta. Two other officers were with Meadows.

The officers surrounded the home of Tal Lewis near Sedgewick, and when they asked McMurta to surrender, he fled, they said. Meadows fired. Meadows has not been arrested.

JUDGE MAY PRESIDE AT COUSIN'S TRIAL

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 21.—(AP)—The Kentucky court of appeals today ruled that Judge Chester A. Bach, of Breathitt circuit court, is not disqualified to preside at the "mob murder" trial of eight defendants because one of them is his first cousin.

A petition to restrain Judge Bach from presiding was filed by G. C. Allen, commonwealth attorney. The eight defendants are charged with lynching Chester Fugate last Christmas Day.

U. S. Air Corps Reserve Base Will Be Established Here

Establishment at Candler field of the first United States army air corps reserve base in the southeastern states was announced Friday by Colonel Duncan K. Major, chief of staff, fourth corps area. First Lieutenant R. R. Brown, new air officer of the corps area, has taken up his duties at Fort McPherson and will be assigned to duties which will include reserve air corps training.

The borough of Atlanta this week signed a lease which will give the army air corps a plot of ground at Candler field for hangar purposes and install the military service on the municipal airport. A steel hangar now at Langley field, Virginia, is available, information from Washington has stated to corps headquarters here. Either this hangar will be shipped to Candler field or a hangar now at Fort McPherson will be utilized, Colonel Major said Friday.

Immediate activity was forecast when the chief of staff stated that he hoped to see the hangar erected and army planes in service at the airport before he leaves the fort in July.

Colonel Major and Lieutenant Brown were guests of honor at a luncheon Friday at the Atlanta Athletic Club given by First Lieutenant E. K. Davis, A. C. R. U. S. A., welcoming the new air officer to Atlanta.

Colonel Major stated that Major-General Frank R. McCoy, fourth corps area commander, Friday morning by long-distance telephone said that he would give the new reserve air corps base here every possible aid and encouragement. General McCoy has been interested in the establishment of the base and it was largely through his work that the announcement was possible.

At the luncheon Horace Russell, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Captain W. L. Plummer, A. R. C. U. S. A.; Jesse Draper, president of the Aero Club of Atlanta; Gregory C. Bowden, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee; Tom Smith, chairman of the aviation committee of general council, and W. B. Hartfield, former chairman of council's aviation committee, welcomed Lieutenant Brown to this section and offered every co-operation in firmly establishing the army air drome at the air port.

Lieutenant Brown said that the new hangar would accommodate a dozen fighting planes and that probably from 3 to 10 ships would be allotted to the base, depending upon the need. Creation of an active reserve unit and training of the personnel in the air and on the ground, as well as tactical work, is planned.

The lease to the air corps at the field is for five years' duration at the nominal figure of $1 a year. The hangar will be erected west of the site of Beeler Blevins hangar.

The new air officer was transferred here from Hawaii and has returned to the south after an absence of several years. He formerly was stationed at Louisville, Ky., with an air corps reserve unit, where he stayed for years, building up the outfit, getting a suitable flying field and equipment and training the personnel.

Others who took to the army officers were Dr. Herbert R. Kennedy, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce aviation committee; Charles Collier, vice president of the Georgia Power Company; Norman Elias, N. S. Noble and Cody Laird.

George E. Flaherty, owner of the transport, was arrested at his home and immigration agents said he confessed employing two disloyal pilots in the plane on a smuggling expedition.

The pilots previously had been arrested. They are Harold A. Sweet, 28, of Los Angeles, and George V. Gray, 34, of Taft, Cal. Others in custody are John F. Smith, 24, of Los Angeles, and Eddis M. Collins, 34, of Long Beach, Cal.

First intimation of the alleged plot came Monday when Mexican authorities found Collins, Smith and nine Chinese public utility men who had bogged down on a little-used road near Mexicali, Lower California. The captives were turned over to immigration authorities at the United States at Calexico, American border city.

Shortly afterward, United States agents hurried to Imperial, Cal., and arrested and meted the Imperial airport. Federal agents charged the pilots planned to fly to a point in Mexico and meet the automobile, taking the Chinese aboard and flying them to northern California.

News of the four arrests was not made public until the men were brought here today. The arrest of Flaherty followed.

Smugglers, the agents said, usually employ an antiquated plane for take-up of the big modern transport was the first made in this territory in operations against smuggling activities.

Tablet Commemorates Chattanooga Founding

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—A tablet commemorating the founding a century ago of Ross Landing, later to become Chattanooga, was unveiled by the Tennessee Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution here today.

Robert Bruce Ross, grandson of Chief John Ross, attended the ceremonies, and was the principal speaker. Mr. Ross came here from his home in Oklahoma for the occasion.

The bronze tablet was placed on the south end of the Market street bridge, approximately the spot where the Ross trading post was established. The following inscription is on the tablet.

"This tablet marks the site of Ross' landing. Here a Cherokee trading station was maintained by John and Lewis Ross during the early part of the 19th century.

"From this point in October, 1813, General John Cocke led the east Tennessee troops through the Cherokee nation to General Andrew Jackson in the Creek war.

"Ross' landing was designed as one of the places of rendezvous for the removal of the Cherokees in February, 1838. A ferry was operated at this place and around it grew a flourishing village known as Ross' Landing. On November 14, 1839, the name was changed to Chattanooga.

"Erected by Chickamauga, Judge David Campbell, Nancy Ward and John Ross chapters, Daughters of the American Revolution."

3-State Cotton Co-op Nearing Organization

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—The formalities of establishing an organization alone remained today to bring into existence the Mid-South Cotton Co-operative Association as a merger of the co-operative associations of Arkansas, Tennessee and Mississippi.

Representatives of the co-operatives of the three states were to meet in Memphis today to perfect the joining of the three associations into one unit. Ratification of the proposed merger already has been voted by members of the associations in the three states. Arkansas, the last state to act, voted its approval at a meeting in Little Rock yesterday.

Plans for the new organization were devised by agricultural leaders of the states affected with the approval of the federal farm board.

Tentative organization details provide for the formation of a productive credit association with a capitalization of $400,000 and establishment of a credit of $1,000,000 with federal intermediate credit banks for loans during the present crop year. A board of 11 directors from the three states would be named with extension service directors of each of the states members of the board to act in an advisory capacity. Preliminary discussion centered on Memphis as the headquarters of the organization with regional bureaus in sections of the states included in the membership.

Institution May Buy Manuscript Cheaply

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP)—The will of William M. Voynich, who in 1912 discovered the famous cipher manuscript of Roger Bacon, it was disclosed today, provides that it never be sold to a private collector at any price, but that any public institution may buy it for $100,000.

Mr. Voynich, a noted bibliographer and medievalist, who died on Wednesday, discovered the manuscript in an Italian castle. The key to the manuscript, which contains some 300 pages inscribed with more than 800,000 words, was partly discovered by Mr. Voynich and the late Dr. William Romaine Newbold, of the University of Pennsylvania. Bacon, a thirteenth century English monk, entered his theories on science in cipher because of the superstition of that age. The manuscript now rests in a safety deposit vault in New York.

Misdeal at Cards Grounds for Divorce

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—(UN)—A misdeal in a card game can cause a wreck in marriage, Mrs. Ester Stella Copeland testified in superior court today and obtained a divorce decree from Paul Copeland.

"My husband had too many cards because of a misdeal," she testified. "I drew a card from my hand and it was the one he wanted. When I won the game he slapped me with the score card and cursed."

in Atlanta Friday to initiate a country-wide search for her.

According to a sister of the missing schoolgirl, there is no reason known to the family why she should have left home. The last person to see her was her schoolteacher who said that she boarded a train headed for Atlanta. She had told one of her girl chums at school that she expected to take a Greyhound bus and ride to Chattanooga.

The girl is a daughter of Mrs. Nela Hayes, of Hiram, and any information concerning the missing child will be welcomed.

Young Briton To Hang For Slaying Mother

LEWES, England, March 21.—(AP)—The crime of matricide today was proved against Harry Fox, a well-born and debonair youth, and he was sentenced to be hanged.

Young Fox strangled his mother, a charming, gray-haired woman of 63, as she lay in bed in her hotel at the fashionable seaside resort, Margate, last autumn.

Not long before Fox had insured his mother's life for considerable sums.

BRIDAL NIGHT DEATH OF WOMAN IS PROBED

Husband Held, Unable To Give Account of Tragedy.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 21.—(AP)—Coroner Willis F. Butler today delved deeper into the bridal night drinking party in which Miss Elizabeth Bowen, 21-year-old radio singer and musician, met death seven hours after she and Roy Lawrence Delatte, 21, were wed here.

Near midnight last night Delatte staggered out of their room at the hotel of his bride in an intoxicated condition and said that the girl had killed herself. His clothing was blood-stained and he was unable to give a coherent account of her death.

The bridegroom was ordered held pending completion of the investigation. Persons in the house said Delatte returned to the room after he had told them that his wife had committed suicide and collapsed in a stupor at her feet.

The girl was lying on the bed with a bullet wound in her temple and her arms crossed.

The coroner said that nine whisky bottles and 36 beer bottles were found in the bedroom and in an adjoining kitchenette.

The couple were married at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and relatives declared they appeared to be in the best of spirits.

Doctor Cook Takes Boys' Group Position

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP)—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, former arctic explorer who was recently paroled from the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., today became physical director of the Boys' Brotherhood Republic.

Nine hundred boys cheered Dr. Cook last night as they made him a life member of the organization—an honor awarded only to two others, President Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. Marshall Field.

The 65-year-old polar explorer, whose claim that he discovered the north pole in 1909 was disputed by his former associate, Admiral Robert E. Peary, will establish a health center at the republic headquarters and at a summer camp at Burlington, Wis.

Cook's parole was from a prison sentence following his conviction in a Fort Worth, Texas, oil fraud trial.

Jury Uncompleted In Trial of Indian

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 21.—(AP)—The trial of Lila Jimeron, Seneca Indian, for the murder of Mrs. Clotilde Marchand was recessed today until 10 a. m. Monday, after the panel of 137 had been exhausted and nine jurors selected. A supreme court panel of 100 was scheduled to appear in court Monday and it was proposed to draw upon this lot for the three remaining jurors. The county court, trying the Indian woman, will have first call on the panel.

Appeal Hearing Set In Mill Union Cases

RALEIGH, N. C., March 21.—(AP)—The North Carolina supreme court today set April 22 for hearing the appeals of seven National Textile Workers' Union members from convictions in Mecklenburg county superior court of second-degree murder of Police Chief O. F. Aderholt, of Gastonia.

Those appealing are Fred Erwin Beal, W. M. McGinnis, Louis McLaughlin, George Carter, Joseph Harrison, K. W. Hendricks and Clarence Miller. They received sentences ranging from five to twenty years in state prison. Aderholt was slain during textile strike disorders.

Miss Gray To Read Poems At Every Saturday Club Meeting

The Every Saturday Club meets this morning at 11 o'clock with Mrs. Francis E. Block at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue. This organization, which was formed in 1904, is one of the oldest literary organizations in Atlanta, and is composed of a group of prominent Atlanta women who are identified with the social and cultural circles of this city. This morning the club members will have the pleasure of having as their guest artist Miss Agnes Kendrick Gray, one of the outstanding women poets in the south, and an active member of the Atlanta Writer's Club. Miss Gray will read some of her original poems, and several poems by other southern poets.

Oriental Club To Give Dance.

The officers of the Oriental Club announce another dance this evening in the Egyptian ballroom of the Shrine Mosque from 9 to 12 o'clock. A large number of Shriners, Masons, De Mays and their friends are enjoying the dances given each Saturday evening at the Temple. Many members of the younger social set have been invited by members of the band. Champions will be Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Battle, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Chestnut, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cutter.

Every Saturday Club is a member of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, General Federation of Women's Clubs, and of the City Federation. Much civic and state philanthropic work is done each year by the organization, aid being given especially to the Tallulah Falls Mountain school, the Emily Hendree Park memorial, and the Student Aid Foundation.

MOTOR RIDE CULMINATED IN INTERESTING ROMANCE

George-Kline Ceremony Took Place in Allentown, Pa.

Nineteen years ago, on Wednesday, March 22, 1911, to be exact, Miss Bella B. George became the bride of Raymond A. Kline in Allentown, Pa., and today Mr. and Mrs. Kline, prominent residents of Atlanta, will celebrate in an informal way, and receive congratulations in various forms from a wide circle of friends and relatives, in recognition of this auspicious date. Their marriage took place in the Salem Reformed church at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and was the culmination of an interesting romance which had its inception in an automobile party two years before when Mr. Kline, while on a vacation in Allentown, invited a few friends to enjoy with him an automobile ride, and at the last moment called upon his feminine guests to secure one of their friends to fill a vacant seat in the machine. The young lady accepting the invitation the former Miss George, completely captivated the host before the return from the auto ride and the spark of affection kindled into a flame of true devotion, an engagement being but a natural sequence.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kline were residents of Allentown, he being a son of the late Reverend Alfred S. Kline and Mrs. Kline is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elias J. George. After the death of her parents, a sorrow which came to Mrs. Kline when but a little girl, she lived with her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baker, of 28 South Madison street. After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Kline went to New York to reside, where Mr. Kline rose rapidly to important positions, and it was from the metropolis that he was sent to Atlanta by the firm of R. H. Macy to take the vice presidency and general management of Davison-Paxon Company, one of the leading department stores in the city.

Account of Wedding.
The Allentown Democrat of March 22, 1911, contained the following article:

"The ceremony will be performed by the pastor, Rev. G. A. Schwedler, and the party will enter the edifice to the tune of 'Lohengrin,' by Professor S. W. Unger, organist of the church. The ring service will be used. During the ceremony Professor Unger will render the Mendelssohn's 'Wedding March,' and the bride will be given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. Harry Baker. The bride will be attired in a rich wedding robe of white all-over embroidery elaborately trimmed in baby Irish and rich Venetian laces and orange blossoms. She will carry a huge spray of bridal roses and lilies of the valley, with orange blossoms as a hair decoration.

"Miss Elsie Kepner, of this city, will be bridesmaid and will wear a beautiful creation of yellow organdie. She will carry a bouquet of yellow daffodils. Leon Miller, of New York city, a close friend of the groom, will be best man. The gift from the groom to the bride will be a platinum diamond and pearl bracelet, dainty and attractive in design and workmanship, encased in a white snake skin box, inscribed in gold letters, 'R. A. K. to B. B. G.' March 22, 1911. A Florence, monogram brooch will pass between the bride and the bridesmaid, and a solid gold scarf pin will be the gift of the best man from the groom. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party will be taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Baker, at 28 South Madison street, where a reception and wedding dinner will follow to which only the members of the families of the contracting parties have been invited.

"This evening the bridal couple will leave for New York city and will immediately occupy their handsomely furnished apartments at 229 Washington avenue, Washington heights. The bride will wear a traveling gown of brown chiffon broadcloth with hat and shoes to match. She is a very popular lady with a host of friends in the younger social circles of this city. She has for years been a soprano soloist in the Salem Reformed church choir, and has been heard in many local concerts and recitals. She was formerly a member of the Oratorio society, and studied under Professor James Prescott.

"The groom's father was for a number of years a clergyman in the United Evangelical denomination, but failing health compelled his retirement, when he engaged in the shoe business under the firm name of Kline and Laros, death alone severing the partnership. Before leaving this city five years ago he was connected with the wholesale house of Bittner, Hunsicker & Co. The period in New York city has been spent in a most trustworthy position as assistant manager and buyer for the jewelry department of John Wanamaker store in the metropolis. The jewelry branch embraces five distinct departments and easily ranks among the leading jewelry emporiums of New York city. Mr. Kline was a former member of the Zion church choir and orchestra and one of the originators and members of the Beethoven Octette. In his adopted city he was one of the organizers of the Millrose Athletic Association. Up to January 1, last, he was secretary of the association, which was named after Mr. Wanamaker's beautiful country home at Bath Beach. The groom is very popular in this city, and is held in high esteem among his New York associates and friends.

"The couple has already received many beautiful and costly gifts from admiring friends. The gifts include rich chinaware, cut glass, linens and furniture, gold, etc. From Mr. Albert Strassburger, head of the Wanamaker jewelry store in New York, the groom received a handsome mahogany Westminster chime clock. A friend has forwarded a complete set of a dozen sterling silver ladles. The gifts come from this city, New York, Philadelphia, and from as far south as El Paso, Texas."

Mrs. Jessie B. Beach Pays Official Visits.

Center Hill and Bolton chapters, O. E. S., were paid official visits by Mrs. Jessie B. Beach, worthy grand matron of the grand chapter of Georgia, last evening, the meeting being held in Bolton chapter room.

Celebrate Nineteenth Wedding Anniversary Today

The above photograph presents a likeness of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Kline, the picture appearing 19 years ago in the Allentown Democrat, published the day after their marriage, Wednesday, March 22, 1911. Mr. and Mrs. Kline have resided in Atlanta for the past five years, taking prominent part in civic, social, cultural and religious circles. They are exceedingly popular here, and Mr. Kline is vice president and general manager of Davison-Paxon Company, affiliated with R. H. Macy, of New York.

The Emperor of America

by Sax Rohmer

"Forget about me," she replied. "By staying here you have avoided—I don't know what. Tomorrow, I think it would be best for you to leave New York. I will try to get in touch with you."

She crossed swiftly to the door. Stopford moved to detain her, but: "Please," she pleaded, "I simply dare not stop one moment." She opened the door. "If you can communicate with your friend, tell him that if he remains nothing can save him. But—remember my promise!"

She was gone.

Dr. Stopford stood watching the closed door in a dazed way after Madame Czerna had rushed from the room. The Russian had said: "Roscoe was—heaven only knew where Roscoe was! And he? . . . He, without a scrap of baggage and very little cash, was marooned in a city apparently controlled by a mad genius who planned its destruction!"

He went across to the window and leaned out, hoping for a glimpse of Madame Czerna. On the opposite, on the sixth floor and immediately opposite, was lighted! Even as he looked, wondering:

"Hands up!" came a crisp order. The tone was significant. Stopford obeyed with alacrity. A big man, clean shaven and of powerful build, stood in the open doorway, covering Stopford with an automatic. This man was a half-mask of black silk. As Stopford turned the man spoke again, in that same eerie, cold voice:

"Get on with it, boys!"

Three other masked men entered. One began a methodical search of the sitting room, a second of the bathroom. Then:

"Have you lost something?" Stopford inquired politely.

"Where's your pal?" was the reply. "To whom do you refer?"

"Listen! This gun's silent. So will you be, if you don't answer. I agree utterly."

But behind the badinage desperate certainty was taking possession of Stopford's mind. At last he was definitely face to face with the Zone gang. "Not a thing!" reported the searcher of the bedroom.

"All clear here!"

"Same here!"

They stood just behind the man with the pistol. He clearly the leader, spoke again:

"Where's your pal?" was what he said.

But his manner of saying it now constituted a death sentence. Stopford clenched his teeth. His life hung upon his next words.

But they were never uttered. A fifth masked man suddenly entered the room. And most astounding circumstance of all, he wore the garb of a priest.

"Drop that gun!" he commanded sternly.

Quicker than the words were spoken, three barrels covered him. As they did so, his hand went to the hilt of his black coat. Drawing it slightly aside, he revealed a curious badge, in which, in small diamonds, the letter Z was visible.

"Get out!" he rapped. "Leave this to me."

An instant change took place in the bearing of the leader. He explained for the benefit of his satellites, who had failed to see the badge. "Beat it, boys."

A moment later they were gone. Stopford found himself alone with the masked priest. The mask was removed, and there—his face unnaturally ruddy—stood Drake Roscoe.

"Mighty near thing, Stoppy!" said he.

Stopford removed his monocle and began to blurt it with care.

"It seems more wonderful than it is," Roscoe explained. "I was certainly followed right to Father Burke's door, but not molested. I had a plan. It was this. I removed the Huff n'ustache, but retained the high complexion. Father Burke is fresh-colored, as you know. With one of his suits and a soft-brimmed clerical hat, plus his tortoise-shell glasses, I looked a credit to the church. I called up the mortuary, feeling moderately sure that Father Burke's line had not been tapped. They were expecting me. I gave certain orders. Then I went on there in the waiting taxi. I saw the poor devil's body, and I found what I'd come for. Look!"

He unpinned the badge and threw it on the table. Stopford bent over it.

"From there," Roscoe continued, "I raced to my own apartment. The door was forced. I went in—still as the reverend gentleman. I was not followed beyond Fifth Avenue."

"Why?"

"I'll explain later. Stopford, my rooms have been turned upside down. They were searched some time today, relocked, and the lock smashed. The 'police captain,' who was one of the Zone gang, called to confirm the fact that I had not been there. As I stood in that wilderness of stripped cases and empty drawers—I stared out of the window."

"Got you!" cried Stopford. "Your window overlooks this room!"

"Fortunately," Roscoe answered grimly. "I saw the hold-up. And I flatter myself I was prompt. I tore a strip of black lining from Father Burke's coat and cut two holes with a pair of scissors. I raced across. The lobby below is bristling with Zone men. But they didn't try to stop the elevator. The moment I was out of the elevator I scrapped the goggles and tied the silk round my head. I risked the procedure—guessing the devil would wear their badges as in the police force. I didn't know my rank. But the display of diamonds was promising."

"You're a Zone officer," said Stopford tonelessly. "I heard him say so. But am I dreamin' or has the traffic stopped? It sounds supernaturally quiet."

Drake Roscoe laughed.

"Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth streets," he replied, "are barricaded at Sixth and Fifth avenues. A cordon of 30 police is surrounding the block. They expect a haul. I, less optimistic, am merely grateful that we're alive!"

The deputy commissioner took up a telephone. "Send Captain Markham," he directed briefly, and replaced the receiver.

John O'Shaughnessy Burke—fearful and respected by twelve thousand odd men of New York city's police under the mystic cypher "J.O.S.B." and consequently known, but always respectfully, as "Boss"—found himself in a quandary. Deputy Commissioner Burke had heavy features, black ruffled brows, and a permanent frown. His was the face of a villain of melodrama—except that dark blue eyes looked out from the shadow of that mathematician's forehead with the wistful inquiry of a poet.

A huge cigar was held between his impatient teeth. These cigars were famous in Centre street, as "Boss Sticks."

"Visibility in his office was invariably poor: today it was nil. Commissioner Burke's chair occupied an oasis in a desert of cigar ash. Numberless stumps littered his trays.

Police Captain Markham came in, the commissioner glanced aside at him through the smoke screen.

"Got your reports?"

"Yes, sir."

Markham cleared his throat, then, reading from a paper which he carried:

"Report of bureau on the 16 suspects detained in Forty-fourth street, Forty-fifth street, Fifth avenue and Sixth avenue on June 27," he intoned monotonously.

"Photographs, bertillon measurements, fingerprints, and other records give no results."

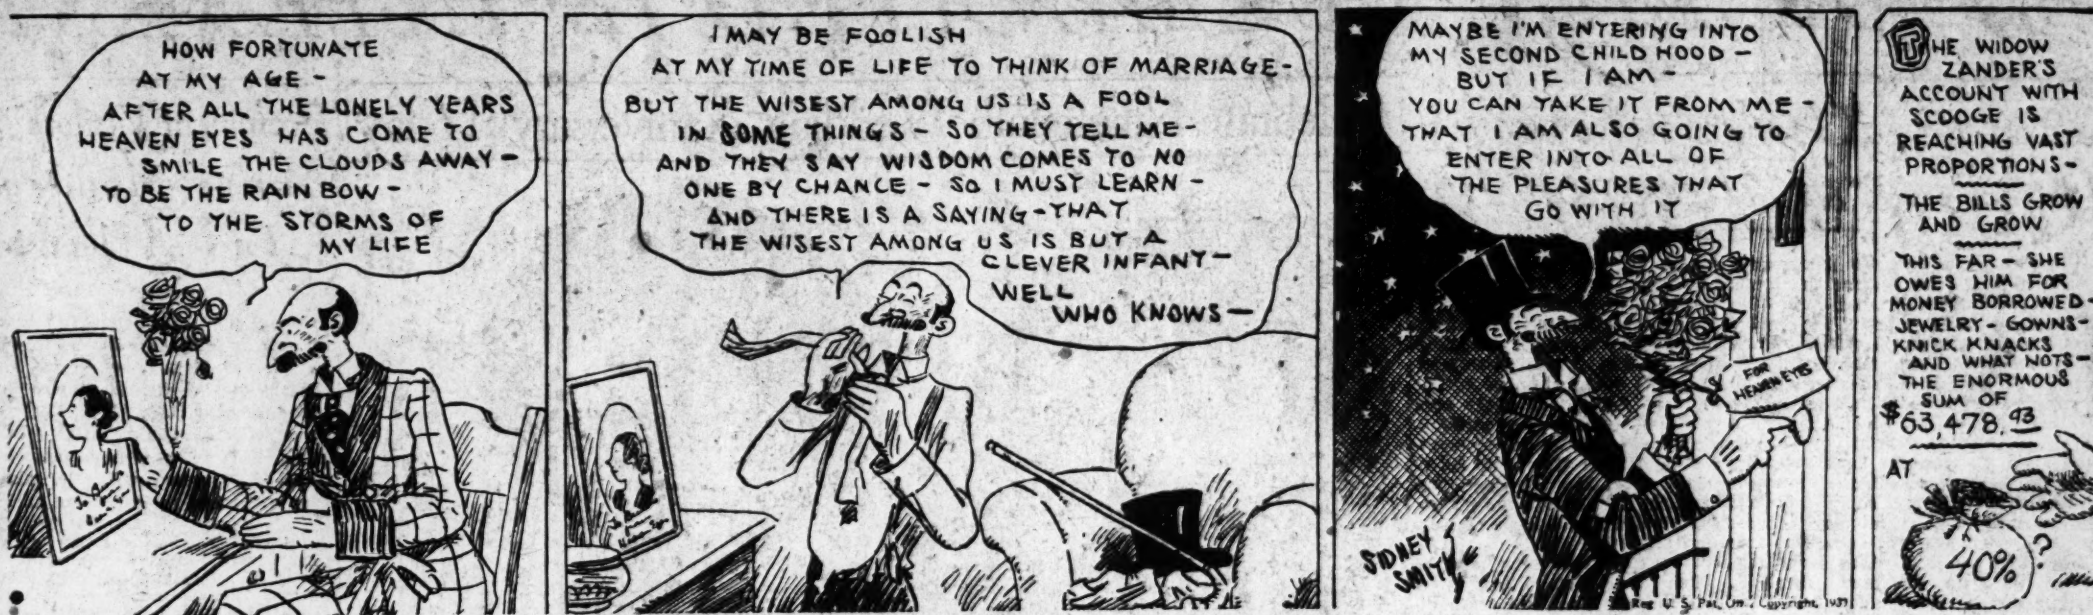

Commissioner Burke swung round so that his cigar pointed directly at the captain.

"This Commander Roscoe," he went on, "is going to be a hundred per cent nuisance. Since last night's raid he's faded out of the picture. But we've got his written instructions to hold all the suspects for his inspection. What charge can we hold 'em on? They all say the yhad legitimate business in that section last night—and none of 'em are known to us."

Continued Monday.

THE GUMPS—A FOOL THERE WAS

'Cannon Ball' Baker Here, Plans Attempt at New World's Record

LANGFORD'S HOMER, CRACKERS WIN, 15-5

One of these days a football coach will develop a new formation and his brothers in arms will hail him king.

But in all the various systems of play, there seems to be no unique formation. Not a set can correctly be termed "modernistic."

The various schools of football thought occasionally dig back in the files of the past and resurrect formations "so old they are new." Yet nothing has been invented.

POP'S "NEW" FORMATION.

Pop Warner, for instance, is experimenting with a "new" formation C, in connection with his now famous A and B sets.

It is described as a balanced line with wingbacks plugging the holes between the tackles and wide-spaced ends. Pop himself explains it was used at Cornell in 1914 and 1915.

And it was such a formation that W. A. Alexander installed at Georgia Tech in the last two games of the season of 1929.

REVERSED QUARTERBACK WAS OLD STUFF.

Coach Alexander was credited in many sections with having invented a new idea in football with his reversed quarterback, a backfield arrangement that was used in winning two conference championships and a national title.

Whenever opportunity offered, Coach Alexander hastened to explain it was old stuff. He had seen a deaf and dumb quarterback stand that way to give signals manually to his backfield.

In fact Coach Alexander had his quarterbacks give certain elements of their signals manually in the open huddle to save vocal wear and tear.

WHAT WOULD THEY DO?

Football tactics now are developed along two general lines—balanced and unbalanced lines—and on two other general subdivisions—the wingback variations and the punt formation schemes.

The plays are standardized. The blocking comes very nearly being so. Scouts these days pay more attention to personnel than to formations.

If a coach were to invent a brand-new play, the mortality among scouts would be frightful.

HE MADE A TACKLE ONCE, TOO.

And while talking about football, let me repeat the gist of a note in Dallas News: Johnny Niemiec, the great Notre Dame halfback, now the new backfield coach at Rice institute, was being introduced about the town recently.

A prominent citizen was glad to meet him and by way of being pleasant asked: "Mr. Niemiec, when you played football did you ever score a touchdown?"

Mr. Niemiec's answer is lost to posterity. But it is reasonable to suppose that after four years in high school football, two years at St. Edwards, and three at Notre Dame the man had managed to get across the line at least once.

A TAINTED BALL CLUB.

Around the circuit they are accusing the Crackers of trying to buy a pennant. The commentators are referring to the Crackers as the "Million Dollar Club" and say that if the Crackers have expended $25,000 for players, the Crackers are in a class by themselves.

In other words, the press boys are getting ready to laugh loudly and coarsely if our team does not sweep through the campaign like a regiment of Cossacks on the loose.

NEW WAY TO RUN OUT.

John Pesek, the rasser, will not grapple with Jimmy London in Columbus April 9 for the "world's championship." He was thrown from a horse and had a broken collarbone.

These rasslers can be thrown out of a ring and land on their heads in the midst of ringside seats and never get scratched—or be unable to continue the match, as the occasion may demand.

Which proves something or other about the relative wrestling ability of a man and a horse.

POWER FOOD.

Do not be surprised if the sports department of this old newspaper suddenly breaks out attacking the Crackers, the Yellow Jackets, the Atlanta Athletic Club, Ted Goodrich and the Democratic party.

From Tubby Walton and Kid Elberfeld, instructors in baseball to the more or less benighted youth of Dixie, came two huge sacks. One contained sliced country ham. The other contained day old eggs. We are investigating the loss of a sack of bread in transit.

Such power producing foodstuffs as originate in the Walton restaurant tend to make men combative, argumentative and violent.

Optimism, the curse of the strong and the refuge of the weak, may be displaced any moment now by scathing pessimism.

The Walton-Elberfeld baseball school closed yesterday. Of the 50 students, twenty-four were signed to professional contracts and started on diamond careers. What other institution of learning places such a large percentage of graduates advantageously the day before school is out?

FAMOUS RACER PLANS ATTEMPT FOR NEW MARK

Car With Speed of 300 Miles Per Hour To Be Built.

Should present plans go through as they appear in the crystal ball of the seer, the next world's speed record will be well over the 300-mile-per-hour mark.

Such, at least, is the ambition of "Cannon Ball" Baker, whose laurels in the realm of speed are many. Baker, just returned from a stay at Daytona Beach to watch the preliminary maneuvers of Kaye Don's "Silver Bullet," is visiting S. B. Dodge, of the Franklin Motor Car Company, here, and revealed this fact in a conversation.

Baker is already laying plans for an assault on the record for 1931. The present mark is the property of Major Sir H. D. Segrave and is the object of Kaye Don's furious gas burning on the sands of Daytona Beach.

Baker Selected. Representatives of a large international oil company are anxious to see the record brought back to America as a "spirit gift" to Kaye Don, who was killed on an Altona, Pa., track and who held the record before Segrave.

Baker has already been selected to pilot the car and has been promised an unlimited capital as backing.

In his statements Baker intimated that the car would be driven by a new plant capable of developing at least 3,000 horsepower, with strong present possibilities of using four "W" type engines, each of 24 cylinders. Each is to be designed to turn out 750 horsepower under normal conditions, with enough reserve power to double the output.

Very Last Word. The car itself will be similar in design to that which Baker used in his Labor Day Pike's Peak climb last year.

The latest features in automotive construction will be incorporated. New metal ideas will be used in the forming of the car, it is probable. It is the intention to determine the feasibility of this steel as a substitute for fabric in tire casings will be utilized in the construction of the car.

The actual steering device, necessitated by the high speed planned, will be both mechanically and electromagnetically controlled. The car will be both radio beamed and the conventional telescopic driving sight.

When completed, the car will be the outstanding feature of the 1931 automotive world," said Baker. "I have long wanted this chance to try for the world's record, and I plan to make the most of it. With the generous support promised I am confident that I can design and produce a car capable of turning out plenty of speed."

Don, Coatalen Smooth Breach.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 21.—Disagreement between Kaye Don, British contender for the world's automobile speed record, and Louis Coatalen, French designer of the Silver Bullet machine, came to a head tonight apparently had been settled and plans for staging the speed trials proceeded in harmony.

The difficulties, which began in the camp of the English driver last Saturday, when Coatalen made plans for bringing the engine, certain alterations over today after Val Hartranze, director of the trials, warned Coatalen that unless an agreement was reached between the two men and plans for the race allowed to proceed harmoniously, he would recommend that the trials be definitely called off.

Before Coatalen arrived here Don took the giant machine onto the beach and attained a speed of 198 miles an hour at about half throttle. He said the car was in excellent condition and ready for the record-breaking attempt.

MAKES CHANGES.

Last Saturday, however, the French designer arrived from New York and after an inspection of the machine decided to saw off the air intake scoops on the carburetors, thinking they might suck in some sand. He also made alterations to the ignition system and the exhaust pipes.

When Don again took the car out for a test run, the motors barked and fired and the engine coughed and spluttered. The next time he tested it out a gasoline line broke and the carburetors were not adjusted properly, so that the motors died when he attempted to shift gears.

The car then was towed back to the garage, placed in good condition and locked up to await a good beach before it again will be taken onto the course.

Don declared that the machine was in perfect condition before Coatalen made the alterations, but the designer insisted that they be made. Since the difficulties were encountered the car now has been placed in its original condition.

Petrels Defeat University, 12 to 2

Using the varsity team for five innings and the freshmen for two, the Petrels defeated the University 12 to 2. Oglethorpe's baseball team defeated University School for Boys 12 to 2 Friday afternoon at Herndon field in a practice session for both teams.

Coach Anderson started his varsity lineup and sent Holcomb, a veteran from last year, to the mound, with Kimbrell behind the bat. The collegians took advantage of Ruben Tucker's wildness and coupled with several opportunistic hits, the Petrels scored several runs across the plate in the first few innings.

GOOD GOLF

THEORY THAT ONE MUST BE YOUTHFUL, OR AT LEAST IN AN EARLY PERIOD OF LIFE, IN ORDER TO HOPE FOR ANY RANGE OF WORTH-WHILE ACCOMPLISHMENT IN GOLF IS A SORT OF MISPLACED OPTIMISM, PROPAGANDA WHICH A GREAT MANY PLAYERS ACCEPT. THEY GO ON THE THEORY THAT ONE HAS TO BE A PRO TO GET ANYWHERE IN THIS GAME. THOUSANDS OF BUSINESS MEN MENTALLY ADMIT—AND PLENTY OF THEM OPENLY ADMIT—that they play golf just to walk around in the grass and the sunshine, and their play levels to that mental attitude. These men might just as well be fair to good golfers, and could be if they changed their attitude and thought good golf instead of thinking poor golf all the time. I played several rounds with an elderly gentleman on the wonderful Lincoln Park course in San Francisco—I wish I could recall his name—who was 76 years old, took up the game after he was 60, and shot close to par golf regularly. "I have to do it with my mind," he told me, "because my squaky old muscles can't be depended on now." He thinks good golf swings—and therefore makes them.

(To make good pitches you must think good pitches. Chester Horton's championship coaching is available in a free, exceptionally-illustrated monograph on the masher niblick; address Ed Danforth, Sports Editor, The Constitution, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope, and it will be sent to you by Mr. Horton.)

ATLANTANS SEE AUGUSTA SHOW

Perfect Weather Prevails as Aristocrats of Turf Perform.

BILL MEHLHORN LEADS TOURNEY WITH 140 CARD

Burke and Smith in Second Place in $15,000 LaGorce Meet.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Wild Bill Mehlhorn, professional golfer, led the 36-hole LaGorce tournament today and turned in a sub-par 69 to lead the qualifying field at the end of the halfway mark of the $15,000 72-hole LaGorce open tournament.

Mehlhorn posted his 69 besides a 71 turned in over the first 18-hole round. He had a 35-hole total of 140. His steady playing today won him $200 in prize money—$100 for medalist honors at the end of 36 holes and $100 for low score on the second 18-hole round.

The "Wild One" got away to a comparatively bad start, taking a pair of fives on the par 4 first and second holes, but struck his stride on the short No. 3 to take a birdie 2. Mehlhorn proceeded to chalk up birdies on holes 4, 5 and 6 in order to make his run four straight. He made 7 and 8 in par and took one over par on the 400-yard ninth for a 34 on the outward trip.

UNDER PAR. Coming in "Wild Bill" shot par golf on the first seven holes of the second nine, dropped a birdie 4 on the par five 17th and finished with a par 4 on the 18th for a 35.

Billy Burke, West Port, N. Y., who was in front at the end of the first 18-hole round, and Horton Smith, Cragston, N. Y., winner of LaGorce top money last year, shared second place honors at the halfway mark with scores of 143.

Burke was one over par on the first nine, taking a 36 and two over par on the back four with a 37 for a total of 73. Horton Smith, who was in the 68, which won him $100 low score money yesterday, gave him a 36-hole count of 143.

Mehlhorn turned in a par 35 on the outgoing nine, but broke through with a pair of fives on the start of the home trip to run his card to 87 and a total of 72 for the day.

ARMOUR THIRD.

Tommy Armour, Boca Raton, Fla., was in third place with a total of 145 for the 36 holes. He was one over par on the first nine with a 36 and used 37 strokes negotiating the distance over the turn for a total of 73 for the day. Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Clarence Gamber, Boca Raton, Fla., were on the heels of Armour all day and tied for fourth place honors with 36-hole cards of 146. Turnesa had a 36 and a 37 for a total of 73 to match his 73 of yesterday, while Gamber posted a 37 and a 38 for a total of 75 to go with his par 71 of the opening day.

Jimmy West, Miami amateur, took his lead among the Simon pure play group with a total of 150 for the 36 holes. West took a 39 and a 41 today for a total of 80 which with his 78 of the first day gave him a 36-hole total of 158. Expulsion basketball trophy won last year by Harcourt Brier, Miami, is the prize for the low amateur of the tournament.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 21.—Fitzgerald's hitters got busy this afternoon and caused a traffic jam at the plate as they defeated the Fitzgerald baseball team 15 to 5 in an exhibition game. For a time the traffic was so congested that the soft drink boys were trying to get through the gates and peddle their wares at the platter.

The Fitzgerald team, a very good one by the way, opened with Johnny Jenkins in the box. The first inning was a close one, with the home team leading 1 to 0. In the second inning the home team scored three runs, but the visitors scored two in the third. In the fourth inning the home team scored four runs, but the visitors scored three. In the fifth inning the home team scored five runs, but the visitors scored two. In the sixth inning the home team scored three runs, but the visitors scored one. In the seventh inning the home team scored two runs, but the visitors scored one. In the eighth inning the home team scored one run, but the visitors scored one. In the ninth inning the home team scored one run, but the visitors scored one.

DOUGLAS, Ga., March 21.—Because the Crackers may not play Sunday baseball at home, the schedule calls for them to do more fraternizing with Pullman porters than other clubs in the league, the Barons excepted. Especially does this call for a number of "Sunday Jump" games beginning Saturday night, including a game on Sunday and ending with the arrival back at Atlanta early Monday morning. That isn't always the case, but it is usually so.

It has come to be that by the time mid-season has come around the Crackers players, on Saturday afternoons, begin looking for someone to call "George." Crackers players, left at home on Saturdays because of injuries, often are unable to sleep unless the wife stands by the bed all night shaking it and throws cinders in the face of the sleeper.

Johnny Dobbs, the Cracker skipper, in seeking to avoid the train jump Saturday night and the jump back Sunday night, has decided that this season the Crackers will make all their Sunday trips to Chattanooga by bus.

The new road will make it possible for the Crackers to get into their bus at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, arrive at Chattanooga in time for lunch and the ball game. And then come home in the gloaming, oh, my darling, when the lights are low. And arrive back at the Empire City by 10 o'clock. Which is plenty of time to wash up, change clothes and see the midnight show at Paramount, the Georgia, the Capitol, the Met, the Rialto, the Cameo, Log's Grand, the Fox, the Palace, the Tenth Street theater or what neighborhood theaters have you?

The players are enthusiastic over the plan. Bus trips are a pain and an abomination usually, but these trips will be made by special bus. They will not take the schedule bus into which Aunt Mame and her three children will crowd for a trip up to Uncle George's near Ringgold.

Incidentally the entire league, that wouldn't let Mine Host Joe Engel become a director, is looking for another man to fill the vacancy. And his personality is something that few men possess. It was easy for Joe to sell the city on his ball club forward to find in September that for years the Lookout fans have been sold plumb trees each spring guaranteed to produce pennant plums only to find in September that the trees were producing a fine crop of raspberries and coarse laughter.

Joe Engel did sell them with a blue print. He built them a park and he put players on the line that are in the guide book with figures like 350 and 360 after their names. The same being the fielding and hitting averages.

BIG CROWDS. This season the Crackers should get off to a running start in their season's attendance record, road and home, which should permit them to show a pair of heels all the way down to the September finish.

Chattanooga has been sold on the idea that Joe Engel is a civic asset. And he is. Joe Engel gets things done. And his personality is something that few men possess. It was easy for Joe to sell the city on his ball club forward to find in September that for years the Lookout fans have been sold plumb trees each spring guaranteed to produce pennant plums only to find in September that the trees were producing a fine crop of raspberries and coarse laughter.

White Sox Enthusiastic Over Chances of Finishing Well Up in Race

ROOKIES SHOW MUCH PROMISE; BUSH PLEASED

Improved Batting Will Lift Club Out of Bottom Rungs.

By Gayle Talbot, Jr.

Associated Press Sports Editor.
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 21. (AP)—Possessing little strength that they did not have last year when they finished just one jump from the American league cellar, the 1936 Chicago White Sox are strangely confident and hopeful for a first division berth.

A different manager and a choice crop of rookies is the only real strength exhibited by the Chicagoans. The natural supposition would be that they are not quite ready to win a pennant. But the Sox, apparently, never heard of such a line of reasoning.

WHOOPIING IT UP.

They are whooping it up for the likeable Donie Bush. There is a spark, a spark in camp you can't miss. Even the continued absence of Art Shires, who it appears might be permanently absent, has failed to diminish their enthusiasm. The players, to a man, believe they are headed for the division and Bush is not the kind of fellow to tell them differently.

"We've got a fine looking bunch of youngsters," said Donie. "It's too early to do any predicting, but I believe the boys are going to play some great baseball for me. I think it's safe to say we'll finish higher than last year. Improved hitting will do that."

Partly responsible for the fine morale of the Sox is the manner in which they have cuffed the Giants about in the exhibition series. Excellent pitching by veterans and rookies alike and hard hitting gave the Sox men three victories before the New Yorkers took a verdict. A young team, the Sox rounded into shape early and are about ready to go now.

ONE WEAK SPOT.
Except at first, where the veteran Bud Clancy has filled in for Shires during the great one's prolonged correspondence with headquarters, the team looks at least as strong in every department as last year, and its pitching and hitting should show an improvement. Although a great spring batter, Clancy's arm is still a bit shaky, however, left a fine, large vacancy at shortstop, and that is where the real battle has raged.

Irvie Jeffries, the growing youth from Dallas, and Ernie Smith, up from Birmingham, are scrapping it out with Bill Hummel, a holdover, with no decision yet in sight. Both Jeffries and Smith hit over 300 with championship clubs last year and one of them likely will get the nod, with Hummel again looking for the utility role. Willie Kautz at third completes the infield. John Kerr, who held down second last year, finds himself in a precarious position.

PRIZE ADDITION.
Smed Jolly, a strapping slugger from San Francisco, who has hit around 400 regularly for several years, is the prize addition to the outfield. He reported late and has yet to prove that he can do big league hitting that way, but Bush expects him to break up a flock of ball games between him and a regular right in the pasture patrol are the fleet Carl Reynolds, John Watwood and Alex Metzler, regular last year, and Jimmie Moore, George Blackberry and Dave Harris, three hard-hitting newcomers. Moore, who batted at a .364 clip for Dallas last year, appears the most promising of the latter trio, though he is nursing a broken finger at present.

Two youngsters from lesser leagues are being counted upon to bolster a somewhat wobbly mound staff. They are Vic Frazier, a cool right-hander whose pitching featured Dallas' victory in the 1929 Texas league flag, and Pat Caraway, a southpaw who compiled a remarkable record with Topeka of the Western league.

WOOD DESERVES CONSIDERATION IN CUP TRIALS

Pacific Coast Star Bright Prospect; Needs More Training.

By Vincent Richards.

International Tennis Star and Former Davis Cup Ace.
This is one of a series of stories in which Vincent Richards is analyzing the playing ability of the men chosen for this year's Davis cup squad. Three years back a blond boy in knickerbockers whose name had never been heard before in English tennis stepped out on the classic turf at Wimbledon and gave the British galleries, who know their tennis better than any other galleries in the world, something to talk about.

Although he seemed hardly strong enough to wield the racket, he played like a veteran, and the way he stood up to Rene DaCoste won him an ovation.

A TENNIS FAMILY.

This was Sidney B. Wood, Jr., and he comes of a family famous in tennis. An uncle is Watson Washburn, former member of the United States Davis cup team and a member of the first ten. Another uncle is Julian Myrick, former president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, chairman of the Davis cup committee for many years, and now chairman of the Wightman cup committee, which has charge of the international matches between England and the United States.

When I first saw Wood play five years ago he was a spindly kid who looked rather frail for the game. But he showed he had the heart of a fighter, and that he knew what the game was all about. Tennis had been taught him early, and had been taught correctly. So he had mastered the technique and correct form much younger than most players.

Wood has a well-developed forehand he blazes away with in a manner to keep his opponent moving fast across the baseline, and his backhand is also well executed. His service, who his opponent is. He is just as careful and unworried against a Lacoste or a Tilden on the center court at Wimbledon or Forest Hills as against an unknown set-up in an outside court.

But all for his confidence and lack of fear, Wood never seems in a hurry to win, or to care a great deal whether he wins or not. Perhaps I should say he plays the game for the fun of it, and that he takes defeat as smilingly as he does victory.

When he gets up against one of the younger players he would like to bet he is more aggressive and concentrates more than he does against an older and better player. He has had close matches with Junior Coen and a match between these youngsters is a feature attraction, for here seems a rivalry which makes both fight their hardest.

Anderson's Son Shows Up Well

Marion Anderson, young son of Frank Anderson, director of athletics at Oglethorpe University, is making good with the Tampa club, according to word received in Atlanta. Anderson played second base for Carrollton in the Georgia-Alabama league.

In two games early in the week with Toronto, Anderson's hitting was a feature of both games. His hit won the second game and his total for the series was four out of seven tries. He fielded good in both games.

FURMAN MEETS JACKETS TODAY

Track Teams Mix at Flats; Tech Golfers Face Florida Here.

Georgia Tech's track team will open its dual meet season this afternoon when the Purple Hurricane cindermen from Furman University come to the Flats to put the Jackets to their first outdoor test.

The Jackets, who started in the competitive ranks two weeks ago at Chapel Hill with the Southern conference indoor meet, have been drilling hard since that time and expect to strut a good portion of stuff in today's events.

At Chapel Hill the Jackets, riding on the shoulders of Captain Ed Hamm, went into a tie for third place in the final point standings. Good performances were turned in by all of the Tech entrants at the "Tin Can" meet.

Drills during the past two weeks have indicated that the Engineer speedsters have all done much to clip seconds from their respective times over the course, and Coach Hal Barron counts on new form from each of the members of his squad.

Little is known of the strength of the Furman squad. Little more of the crew at the Flats. The Purple lads can usually be counted on to furnish plenty of competition, however, and should push the Jackets to their best.

While the Jackets have not done much running against opposition to date, Coach Barron has held frequent time trials, with results promising much for his charges in the season just starting.

The meet is slated to get under way at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Jacket Golfers Meet Florida.
Teeling off in competition for the first time since last season's conference tournament, the golf squad wearing the White and Gold of Georgia Tech is slated to swing through 18 holes of match play against Florida's Gators at East Lake this afternoon. 12:30 o'clock has been set as starting time.

Only two members of the 1929 squad, Captain Jim Brumby and Scott Hudson, Jr., are eligible for play in the present Tech foursome. Dick Voorhis and Ed Hieron, two finds, will round out the Engineer squad and are expected to shoot enough golf to keep the Jackets up in the conference running.

COLUMBIA GETS BEST PLAYERS OF SPARTANBURG

Drawing Held at Meeting of Sally League in Charlotte.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 21.—(AP)—The Columbia club got all the breaks in the drawing for players of the defunct Spartanburg club at a surprise meeting of the Sally league directors here today.

President W. G. Bramham called the meeting and in the absence of an official representative of the Columbia club, appointed McDaniel proxy for Columbia.

The magnates then drew for place and each club was instructed to draw in the order in which they selected numbers from the hat.

Macdonald drew Zintiera, Charlotte drew Wally Hunter, Asheville pulled Breakfield, Greenville, Johnson and Augusta, Conley.

THREE PRIZES.
In addition to Zintiera, Atkinson and McHaffey were considered the prizes among the Spartanburg players.

On the next round, McDaniel pulled McHaffey, Macon took Jett, Charlotte got Catcher Gerabrandt, whom they turned loose after a week's trial last year; Greenville got Adair, and Augusta, Watts; Asheville drew Scotty Chestnut.

On the third round McDaniel pulled Atkinson for Columbia. Charlotte drew Vaughan, Macon got Formisby, Asheville pulled Collins, Greenville, Peach, and Augusta, Martin.

The directors adopted the ladies' day proposal of Felix Hayman to admit all lady fans free every day except opening day, holidays and Saturdays.

SCHEDULE DISCUSSED.
The matter of a schedule for the coming pennant chase was discussed and the opening day set for April 21 with the curtain dropping September 6, or as near that date as practicable.

The directors decided to abolish the practice of giving a trophy cup for the largest opening day attendance. They voted instead a $100 cash award, with the stipulation that this be turned over to some charitable organization in the city winning it.

Holidays will not be allotted each club this year, President Bramham declaring that attempting to award each club the same number of festive days had sent many schedule drafters to the booby hatch. The holidays will fall where they may.

Bramham assured the magnates that work would begin on the schedule at once and that it would be ready for publication within a few days.

Leo Diegel Meets Hagen's Old Foe
Arrangements have been made for a 36-hole golf match between Leo Mitchell and Leo Diegel, the American professional champion. It will take place on a Mock park course, Rickmansworth, England, May 17.

Was awarded Kruse after the referee ruled Cantowine had fouled the Portland.

JUDSON PIONEER OF MAT GAME

Great Matches Loom for Tuesday Night; Fox and Sauer Battle.

Frank Judson, who appears here next Tuesday night in Promoter Weber's heavyweight wrestling card, is one of the most interesting men in the wrestling game.

He was the pioneer of all the college men who have gone into the game. And while some of them have had more spectacular careers they have not lasted as has Judson and it is very doubtful if the present collegiate wrestler, Gus Sonnenberg, could defeat him.

GETS BAD BREAK.
Judson left Harvard in 1923 to take up wrestling. Just as he reached his early peak he was injured a few days before a match with Joe Stecher, who then was champion. An injury kept him out for a time but he is back again, weighing 208 pounds and winning matches consistently.

While Dick Shikat, the champion who appeared in Atlanta recently, has never been defeated in a regulation match, he has first one in this country, a 30-minute preliminary, to Judson. Shikat has not met him since that time.

Judson's appearance is deceptive. He has one of the finest physical builds in the world. He appears to be lighter than his bulkier opponents but Judson is as heavy and as strong as they. And in most cases he has proved to be more skillful.

His favorite hold is the "flying wing lock," which he calls "the airplane spin." Whatever it is it certainly takes his opponents for a ride.

Judson meets Frank Brunowicz in the one-hour semi-windup on the card. Brunowicz is a capable wrestler whose only appearance in Atlanta was a victorious one. He easily defeated Rough House Nelson in a match which was quite rough and spectacular. He is a capable foe for Judson.

The main event, Sauer vs. Charley Fox, is a match which Atlantans have wanted to see for the past two months. It should draw a capacity crowd. Ever since Pete Sauer wrestled here some years ago as "The Masked Marvel," he has been a prime favorite. Since that time Sauer has put on weight and developed into one of the leading heavyweights in the game. It is very doubtful if Jim London could defeat him now.

ASKED FOR A GREEK.
Charley Fox, the Elrod-billed egg from Cleveland, may live to regret a remark made in an Atlanta ring some weeks ago. He demanded that he be fed another Greek just after he had dusted off one in the ring. And Weber, since that time, has been after an open date which would be acceptable to both Fox and Sauer. Sauer is not a Greek but accepted the match for a chance at the tough one.

What a battle it will be. Because Pete Sauer has proved to be a hot water as long as Fox if the truth be known. Tickets are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters and at the Candler building soda fountain.

Christians Win Dixie Loop Flag

In two of the best games of the season Peachtree Christian defeated Western Heights Baptist, 25 to 23, to win the Dixie league race, and J. O. G. Class, Seawee league winners, eliminated Central Presbyterian from the association championship play by handing them a 26-to-24 defeat. The Peachtree Christian-Western Heights Baptist game required an overtime session to reach a decision. Accurate shooting from long range by Claud Reed kept Western Heights Baptist in the battle. This led sank five field goals and played above par on defense. For the visitors O'Connor on defense and Johnson on offense were outstanding.

TY AND THE TWO SWINGS.

Only a short patch of time is required to scramble up any situation. Four years ago I recall an earnest debate with Ty Cobb in a room of New York hotel as to whether or not the golf swing interferes with the form and timing of the baseball swing.

Ty insisted that the two swings did not mix. He complained that on certain occasions the golf swing had left a number of kinks and cracks in his baseball swing, removing much of the old punch.

Yesterday in a room of another New York hotel, the Georgia Peach who had scored over 2,000 runs and had made over 4,000 base hits was complaining somewhat moodily that the baseball swing was interfering with the rhythm and smoothness of his golf swing. The situation being exactly reversed.

Golf is now the Georgian's aim, but it isn't quite up to the game of another Georgian, who manages to peel off his par now and then, the name being Robert T. Jones, Jr. Cobb has discovered that the constant and applied habits of 25 years are not to be shaken loose in a few days or weeks. You might even say months, and then throw in a few years.

"In hitting a baseball," he said yesterday, "my bat traveled only a short distance after colliding with the ball." It was half swing and half jab. That doesn't go in golf unless you like to play niblick shots out of heel prints. The club head must go on through. "How many base hits did I make?" he asked.

"Four thousand, one hundred and ninety-one," I suggested, "not including exhibition games and world's series." "I'll trade 191 of those," he said, "for 191 good iron shots up close to the pin."

Anyone wishing to make the trade can get in touch with Ty Cobb at Augusta, Ga. The base hits are said to be well preserved.

CAN HE FIGHT?
A number of inquiries have come in asking whether or not Carnera can really fight. There will be no answer unless he has polished off one of the single midgets and has broken the crutch of another cripple.

But any mastodon or what-not who can draw over $100,000 showing derelicts off the bench back into the surf will be given at least one big shot. The carnival looks too ripe to be overlooked. The ballyhoo has been ridiculous beyond all belief but it has been accompanied by the plank of kale and that is the only melody that counts in the modern symphony of slug.

Carnera may be a joke, a dud, a flat tire, or 270 pounds of cheese but the crop born every second or so is now practicing quick starts to get in line for the big payoff. Not even Mr. Edison has discovered any invention that will keep a sucker from being a sucker.

There was a time when the British waited to take each competition as it happened to blow along. A game was just an afternoon off, but with Helen Wills and the Davis cup team pointing for Wimbledon, Bobby Jones and the Walker cup team soon headed for Sandwich, and Glenna Collett assembling eight or ten of the best women golfers for another invasion, the old order has been overboard. The loud trumpeting of Phil Scott has also helped to stir up the old lion, for as bad as he was, Scott had his squeak coming.

As a result Great Britain's international army has mobilized under full equipment. It is all well enough to be casual for a spell, but a chin can finally become sensitive if allowed to remain in the road too long.

It is said that upon his return to England, Phil Scott exhibited a cauliflower hip as part proof of the Sharkey system.

Bob Shawkey said his Yankees will take the Athletics this season. Just where the Athletics will be taken and dropped was not mentioned.

Early Jinx.
The jinx on Yankee catchers started early. Bubbles Hargrave and Ben Bengough were the first injured in the club's camp.

Sun and Rain.
William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Cubs and Catalina island, is in a tight spot. The island needs rain from the long dry spell, but the Cubs don't want rain for spring training.

Atlanta's First Tourney Today

A ball sweepstakes golf tournament for members of the Capital City Club will be held this afternoon on the club course at Brookhaven. It will be the first of a series of golf tournaments to last throughout the summer and fall months.

The one-day tournament will be divided into three classes with players whose handicaps are less than 12 in Class A, players with handicaps between 12 and 18 in Class B, and players whose handicaps are greater than 18 in Class C.

Howard Beckett, professional at Capital City, stated Friday that the greens are in better condition than ever before during winter months and a large crowd of golfers are expected to compete in the first tournament of the season. Willie Livingston, assistant to Beckett, will be in charge of the tournament this afternoon.

What his game seems to lack is aggressiveness, although Wood has plenty of confidence in himself. It doesn't seem to make any difference who his opponent is. He is just as careful and unworried against a Lacoste or a Tilden on the center court at Wimbledon or Forest Hills as against an unknown set-up in an outside court.

But all for his confidence and lack of fear, Wood never seems in a hurry to win, or to care a great deal whether he wins or not. Perhaps I should say he plays the game for the fun of it, and that he takes defeat as smilingly as he does victory.

When he gets up against one of the younger players he would like to bet he is more aggressive and concentrates more than he does against an older and better player. He has had close matches with Junior Coen and a match between these youngsters is a feature attraction, for here seems a rivalry which makes both fight their hardest.

While the Jackets have not done much running against opposition to date, Coach Barron has held frequent time trials, with results promising much for his charges in the season just starting.

The meet is slated to get under way at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Jacket Golfers Meet Florida.
Teeling off in competition for the first time since last season's conference tournament, the golf squad wearing the White and Gold of Georgia Tech is slated to swing through 18 holes of match play against Florida's Gators at East Lake this afternoon. 12:30 o'clock has been set as starting time.

Only two members of the 1929 squad, Captain Jim Brumby and Scott Hudson, Jr., are eligible for play in the present Tech foursome. Dick Voorhis and Ed Hieron, two finds, will round out the Engineer squad and are expected to shoot enough golf to keep the Jackets up in the conference running.

PHILLIES POLE 5 HOME RUNS BUT LOSE GAME

Brooklyn Defeats Shoton's Club, 12-9, at Clearwater.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 21. (AP)—With home runs ringing off the bats almost as frequent as singles, the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Philadelphia Nationals, 12 to 9, today.

Eight home runs, five by the Phillies, turned the contest into a hitting orgy. Friberg, O'Donnell, Klein, Hurst and Signman contributed the Phillies' circuit drives, three coming in the third inning, while Les, Gilbert and Bressler did likewise for the Dodgers. Seven runs in the first inning gave Brooklyn a lead which the Philadelphia sluggers were unable to overcome.

Down the Line by W.D. McGehean

Using Their Heads.

LAGONEGRO, Italy, March 21. This being the avalanche season in Calabria, the road was blocked by a landslide. It traveled 50 kilometers to gain five, and then was thrown for a loss by a washout, and afterward penalized 30 kilometers for being offside of a bridge that has gone down into the Mediterranean.

It looked all the time as though most of the progress was being made backward like one of those Yale football teams, which, when the yardage was measured up, made more progress in the direction of the goal than in the direction of the opponent's goal.

I was trying to act as linesman in regard to our progress toward Naples sighting on the volcano Stromboli, which is off the coast of Calabria. At the end of the third day, I mentioned to the lady who is driving me that the country seemed to be gaining on us, and that if we kept traveling the way we were we would land back in Messina across the Straits.

Of course, I was learning the proper way to manipulate spaghetti, which would be a valuable acquisition if we were going to stay in Calabria—and I can say right here that I know of worse places—but seeing that we eventually go back to New York, perfection in the art of spaghetti would come under the head of useless accomplishments because you cannot eat spaghetti twice a day without spazzying.

I could become a Calabrian without any too much persuasion, but it would not be so easy for the lady who is driving me.

As I told her, "You never could become a Calabrian woman because you do not use your head."

Now that might sound like a wise crack, but I meant it literally. When I pulled this celebrated bon mot there were four Calabrian women standing in the road. One of them had a cord of wood on her head. Another had a few sacks of flour. A third was wearing a spring creature consisting of a ten-gallon cask of wine neatly trimmed with a solid oak log, while the fourth, being an elderly matron, wore a simple chapeau consisting of the family wash weighted with a few rocks which served the same purpose as hairpins in preventing the wash from being blown out.

They were carrying lighter loads than the women. I suppose that the men figured that the women with their native feminine intuition knew more about carrying loads than the donkeys.

The lady who is driving me was wondering whether or not all those bundles on the heads did the brains of the Calabrian women any good. So far as I could tell from superficial observation, it did not seem to do them any harm.

The debilitate slouch which has been so severely criticized in New York, is unknown among the girls of Calabria either in younger or the elder set. If you carry things on your head you have to keep the head up or the load will fall off.

The waste motion in the thing appealed to me. Of course a 10-gallon keg is a fair enough carry for anybody, especially of the weaker sex, but a department store expert could speed up carrying in Calabria no little.

While the women had their heads loaded their backs were free. Each woman in that group could have balanced herself better by having a regulation pack on her back in addition.

Capretto.

In Calabria we seemed to have roast capretto, which is roast kid, for every meal. It is a toothsome morsel if you do not see the capretto before he is turned into food, and if you can eat the dish without associating it with one of those little things gambling on the Calabrian hillside.

Once I lived in a city in the United States where there were many Calabrians, and in the spring their appetites ran to roast capretto. There was Caesar Ronci, who kept the little bar and restaurant on the side of Telegraph Hill, and his place was a favorite eating place for San Francisco newspapermen.

One night when we assembled, he announced that he had a treat for us the next evening. We were to have roast capretto, and he had in a little live black and white kid that bleated in a friendly fashion and wanted to be petted.

Naturally, we lost our appetite for roast capretto, even though it would be prepared as only Caesar could prepare it, and be washed down with the sort of chianti they made in Calabria in the days before the great evil fell upon that state as well as upon other states of the nation. We begged for the kid, but he was too good for us, and we pooled to buy the kid to have it from the roasting pit on the condition that Caesar should raise it in his back yard.

The kid grew to be a billygoat with an antipathy to Caesar. When it attained full growth it managed to enter the kitchen and but Caesar from behind, knocking him against the stove which upset and set fire to the grate. The goat was caught in the flames and roasted. Being a full grown goat, it was not worth eating. We might as well have roasted a pig in the first place. Perhaps a wise Providence has ordained that kids should become capretto.

Chocolate, Wolgast Georgia Yannisans

Win Gotham Bouts Tie Regulars, 2-2

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, March 21. (UN)—Kid Chocolate, Cuban negro featherweight, won a technical knockout over Al Ridgeway, of Jersey City, after 2 minutes and 29 seconds of the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout here tonight. Chocolate weighed 126-3-4, Ridgeway 128.

A crowd of about 10,000 saw Chocolate, making his first appearance in a New York City boxing ring, knock out the floor rider, four times for a count of nine each before Referee Jack Dorman stopped the contest.

Midget Wolgast, a lightning mite from Philadelphia, outclassed Black Bill, a stablemate of Chocolate, and won the unanimous decision of the judges. Many of the ringside experts counted Wolgast a lightweight contender with either hand, a clear margin in at least 12 of the 15 sessions. There were no knockdowns.

Father Lumpkin

Kayoes Another

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 21. (AP)—Roy (Father) Lumpkin, who deserted Georgia Tech's football squad for the boxing game, knocked out Joe O'Neil, Pittsburgh, 210-pounder, in the third round of a scheduled eight-round bout here tonight. Lumpkin weighed 185, O'Neil was the first opponent in five bouts to go more than one round with Lumpkin. The former footballer took the opening rounds and seemed to show considerable improvement over his previous performances.

Open Tennis Meet

Plan Is Killed

PARIS, March 21. (UN)—The International Tennis Federation today rejected the proposal of the United States to hold open tennis championships, which amateurs and professionals would compete, by an overwhelming majority.

The defeat of the proposed amendment will prevent the United States Lawn Tennis Association from going through with plans to hold the first open tournament at the Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, in September.

Representatives from 24 countries, including United States, Argentina, Chile, Brazil, Spain, Italy, England and France, attended the meeting and unanimously voted an affiliated member with the right to one vote.

The French representatives proposed that the Davis cup tournament be henceforth organized and regulated by the International Federation. A clarification of the word "nation" was discussed with a view to defining it so that it will mean the same thing in all countries.

CHATTANOOGA, SENATORS MIX TILT TODAY

Lookouts in First Exhibition; Mobile To Play Louisville Club.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 21. (AP)—Yannisans defeated the Regulars, 7 and 6, in a 10-inning practice game here today. Bobby Jamotte, shortstop purchased from Baltimore, arrived in time to take part in the game but as yet has not signed his contract. The Lookouts will play their first exhibition game against the Washington Senators tomorrow. Joe Marty, bought from the Pacific coast, and Chick Howard, one of the few holdovers from the 1929 Lookouts, are scheduled to pitch for Bill Rodgers. Manager Jamotte will start on the mound for the Senators. Washington will establish a training base here for several weeks.

Pels in Rain.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21. (AP)—Drizzling rain today hampered, but failed to prevent the routine work-out of the New Orleans Pelicans. The Birds went through the fundamentals in preparation for their games tomorrow and Sunday with the Cleveland Indians.

Bears Play Colonels.

MOBILE, Ala., March 21. (AP)—The Mobile and Louisville Colonels worked out here today as usual. Both clubs are scheduled to play their third exhibition game of the spring season tomorrow. The Southern association team has won two straight from the American association club. Manager Hamilton will probably use his young pitchers, while Manager Sothern, of Louisville, will work veteran hurlers on the mound.

Chick Pitchers.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21. (AP)—The Memphis Chickadees, who are in the Southern association; Johnny Walker and Tony Welzer will have pitching assignments for the Memphis Chickadees. The Chickadees will play their season here tomorrow against the Minneapolis Millers, unless night-bell plans go awry. Manager Prothro has announced charges ready for competitive baseball.

Volts Take Off.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 21. (AP)—Manager Clarence Rowland and 17 volunteers left tonight for Annapolis, Md., where they will engage the Toledo American association team tomorrow afternoon. A lively practice game was enjoyed this afternoon. Harry Bennett, a recent purchaser of Independence, Kan., reported for duty.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

About The Atlanta Constitution's

$25,000 PRIZE OFFER

(Q.) Who can enter The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 Prize Campaign?

(A.) Any man or woman. However, employees, members of employees' immediate family, carriers or agents of The Atlanta Constitution, are NOT permitted to enter the campaign.

(Q.) Does it make any difference where the candidate lives?

(Q.) How is the territory divided?

(A.) It has been divided into two divisions and these divisions have been divided into five districts each. The first division comprises that territory in the counties of Fulton and DeKalb. The second division comprises all other outside territory.

(A.) Yes. Two automobiles, a $3,120 Pierce-Arrow Sedan and the $2,835 Franklin Sedan are the grand prizes and will be awarded to the two highest candidates in credit standing, regardless of the division or district in which they are entered. There are three automobiles, a $1,615 Nash Sedan, a $1,180 Chrysler Brougham and a $935 Essex Coach to be awarded to the three highest candidates in credit standing in the First Division, after the two grand prize winners have been eliminated. There are three automobiles, a $1,495 Reo Sport Sedan, a $1,295 Marmon Roosevelt Sedan and a $965 Pontiac Sedan to be awarded to the three highest candidates in credit standing in the Second Division, after the two grand prize winners have been eliminated.

There are five $685 Chevrolet Coaches, five $608 Ford Tudor Sedans, ten $174.50 Atwater Kent Radios and ten $146.50 Atwater Kent Radios to be given as district awards. One of the Chevrolet Coaches or one of the Ford Tudor Sedans, one of the $174.50 Atwater Kent Radios and one of the $146.50 Atwater Kent Radios, will be awarded to the three highest candidates in credit standing in each of the ten campaign districts, after the two grand prize winners and the six division prize winners of cars have been eliminated.

No candidate can win more than one of the above listed prizes. All candidates not winning a regular prize will be paid a cash commission of 10% on all new prepaid subscriptions and 5% on all new contract subscriptions turned in by them, provided their total turn-in amounts to $50 during the campaign.

(Q.) How are credits obtained?

(A.) By securing renewal and new subscriptions for The Atlanta Constitution. Credits are given according to a credit schedule. Contract subscriptions can be taken from new subscribers whereby they agree to take The Constitution for 6 months or 12 months and to pay the carrier weekly. These contracts can be taken for subscriptions in Atlanta and outside towns where The Constitution has carrier service. Cash subscriptions can also be taken from both Old and New subscribers and the subscriber pays in advance.

(Q.) Are contracts for subscriptions taken on old subscriptions.

(A.) No. For the reason that it might be possible for an agent or carrier of the newspaper to turn over to a candidate hundreds of Old subscriber's contracts which would be very unfair to candidates working for their subscriptions. The plan of accepting contracts on only New subscriptions and paid-in advance on both old and new subscriptions, makes it fair to all.

(A.) No. They can obtain subscriptions anywhere. They are NOT restricted to any territory in taking subscriptions.

(A.) No. The campaign is for individuals.

(A.) There is no charge made whatever to enter nor does it cost anything to win. Credits alone determine the winners and credits are given for securing subscriptions.

(Q.) But I have to work all day. When could I find time to get subscriptions?

(A.) The same is true practically of everyone in the campaign. Your spare time is enough.

(Q.) When is the best time to enter?

(A.) Now, when the campaign is starting. The first list of candidates will be published Sunday.

(A.) All those entered will not become active. However, every new entry should split the total crediting power just so much more and make winning just so much easier for the determined seeker for credits. The political axiom that a many-cornered split in the credits paves the highway to victory for an ambitious aspirant, applies to this campaign.

(Q.) Can credits be transferred from one candidate to another?

(A.) POSITIVELY NO. Credits cannot be transferred.

(Q.) When does the campaign end?

(A.) May 31, 1930.

(Q.) How will the campaign close?

(A.) A locked and sealed ballot box will be used in which candidates may deposit their final subscriptions. This box will be locked, sealed and opened by ERNST & ERNST, nationally-known firm of public accountants, who will have charge of auditing the entire returns of the various candidates in the campaign and announcing the winners. This assures absolute fairness to all.

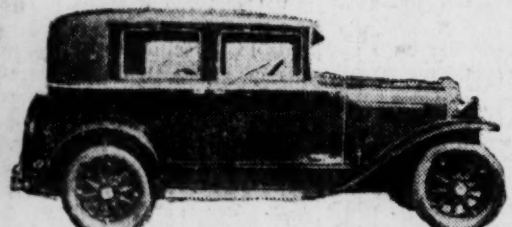

(Q.) How can I enter the campaign?

(A.) Sign your name and address on the Entry Blank below and send or mail it to the campaign department of The Atlanta Constitution. It starts you with 5,000 free credits. You will then be furnished blanks and information for taking subscriptions.

Farm Product Prices Stiffen During Week

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: At least three features of impor-

53 tance stand out in the week's resumption 54 of trade and industry. Perhaps, the 55 most immediately important one is 56 the stiffening of prices of a number 57 of farm products and raw materials
58 the effects of whose weakness in re-59 cent months have hardly received their 60 notice their importance deserved. Another 61 other is the continued easing off in 62 quotations for money, both at home 63 and abroad, which has usually been 64 prerequisite to a renewal of trade ac-activities, after such a series of events as has faced the business world since the autumn of 1929. A third feature earlier predicted, based partly by the way, on the late date of Easter this year, has been the evident leisurely advance of spring buying, which it is now conceded, has run true to traditions of other similar years.

Weekly bank clearings $12,377,134, 000, a decrease of 18.2 per cent from a year ago.

Cottonseed Oil.

NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—The cottonseed oil market ruled steady today, with some of the deliveries a shade higher in sympathy with firmer cotton prices. Prime summer yellow oil closed unchanged at 7.75 and prime crude closed at 7.00 to 7.25. Futures closed steady: March 7.90; May 7.85.

NEW YORK. March 21.—Cottonseed oil closed firm today, at advances of 6 to 10 points. From start to finish values were kept on the upgrade following the lead of the other markets, but the strength of cotton and provisions was especially beneficial. Hedging pressure appeared on the rallies, but offerings were promptly absorbed by local shorts and commission houses.

Sales—4,000 barrels. Prime crude 7.23; prime summer yellow spot 8.50; March crude 8.53, May 8.92, July 9.06, September 9.25, October 9.25.

MEMPHIS.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21.—Cottonseed futures closed firm. Closing bids: March 36.00; May 36.75; July 36.25; September 36.00; October 36.00. Sales 400 tons.

Cottonseed meal futures closed firm. Closing bids: March 34.00; May 34.30; July 34.75; September 35.00; October 35.00. Sales 4,900 tons.

Wall Street Briefs.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The record of business failures in the country this week changed slightly from last week, but the number was more than 100 above the failures for the corresponding interval a year ago. R. G. Dun & Company reports. There were 538 insolvencies reported for this week compared with 565 for last week and 438 for the same period in 1929.

The cigar manufacturing plants of the Porto Rican-American Tobacco Company will be on a 100 per cent machinery basis by the end of April. Luis Toro, president, said today. The company is now making per cent of its cigars by machines, whereas a year ago only 50 per cent were manufactured in this manner. Savings of from $4 to $7 a thousand cigars are effected by the use of machinery. Mr. Toro said.

The Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Company of Birmingham, Ala., is reported to be shipping more pig iron than is being produced at present with three blast furnaces in operation.

Dow, Jones & Company reports that the sales and earnings of the Coca-Cola Company for the first of the year have been

pany has been considerably ahead of the same months of last year, with indications that the first quarter will establish new high records for the period.

Louis H. Costalea, British automotive designer, has been elected a director of the Indian Motorcycle Company, of Springfield, Mass., and will serve as a consulting engineer for the company, which has acquired American rights for the manufacture of the Costalea Diesel aviation engine. The New York Stock Exchange today approved the listing of 50,000 additional shares of the company's common stock.

The net operating income of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis (Nickel Plate) railroad for February amounted to $481,303 as against $881,042 in February, 1929.

Value of Bonds on Curb Show More Improvement

BY STANLEY W. FRENOSIL.

Associated Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP)—

Speculators for the advance retained control of the price movement in today's curb market but there were sufficient spot markets scattered throughout the list to give the market the appearance of irregularity most of the time.

As a rule, week-end profit taking sales were well absorbed, nearly 50 issues moving to new high levels for the year during the day's trading.

Despite the temporary stiffening in cash money, bond prices showed further improvement. The New York

Dutch was admitted to trading and sold at a moderate premium above the offering price. Gains of 1 to 4 points were scattered among the other high-grade mortgages, with public utilities making the best group showing.

Oil stocks developed a fresh outburst of strength which sent such issues as Humble and Standard Oils of Kansas, Ohio and Nebraska to new high levels. The latter advanced 100 for a gain of nearly 5 points.

The stock sold as low as 78 this year.

Standard Oil of Indiana duplicated

the year's high of 54.4. Vacuum and Gulf recorded substantial gains but

Eureka Pipe Line broke 5 points to a new low. The rally took place in the face of a speculative defeat of a proposed tariff on oil.

Individual Feature.

Deere &amp; Company (old stock) was the spectacular individual feature, selling at 100 for a gain of 10 points at all time at 665, but losing about a third of its gain on profit taking.

The new stock touched a new peak at 136 and then sagged a point. Peoples Deere jumped 10 points to a new top at 64 on a few sales. Educational Pictures preferred ran up 9 1-2 points, and Atlantic &amp; Pacific 8 1-2 on small transactions. Singer Manufacturing broke 8 points and A. O.

Smith, which soared to a new high earlier in the week, lost 4 more points on profit taking.

Several widely inactive public utilities reached new high ground.

American Gas &amp; Electric stood out with a gain of 9 points at 279 1-2.

Arizona Power, Brazilian Light and Traction, Electric Power &amp; Light optional warrants, Empire Gas &amp; Fuel preferred, Quebec Power, and Sierra Pacific Electric all reached new high ground. Electric Bond &amp; Share closed 1 1-4 points higher at 103 1-2 after having crossed 104, to within a small fraction of the year's top.

Fokker Aircraft advanced more than 2 points to a new high at 24 3-4, or nearly double the year's low. Most of the other airplane issues showed fractional improvement. Douglas discounting its high of the year.

American Dynamite attained a new peak and then ran into a heavy volume of profit taking which resulted in a net decline of 1 1-2 points.

Bebeok &amp; Wilcox broke 5 points.

Lehigh Coal &amp; Navigation, New Jersey Zinc, Southwest Dairies and United Chemicals prior preferred also were under selling pressure, the last nearly breaking 3 points.

MILLIONAIRE GIVEN SENTENCE FOR THEFT

PONTIAC, Mich., March 21.—(AP)—

Otto Sasche, a 59-year-old millionaire who had received respect and honors from his fellow citizens here for a quarter of a century Thursday was sentenced to prison on a charge of defrauding his school district of $15,500.

The convicted man stood mute while his friend of many years—Circuit

Judge Glenn C. Gillespie, told him the charge was based on the fact that he had sold the land to Paul Kamper,

Detroit architect, for $30,000. Kam-per, testifying for the state, denied he had any part in the transaction.

Sasche, who had been a civic leader and bank official until he was indicted and church affairs. He made a fortune outburst at several million dollars largely in the real estate business.
